Учебник «Английский язык» — основной компонент учебно-методического комплекса, подготовленного для учащихся 10-го класса общеобразовательных школ Кыргызской Республики на основе Предметного стандарта по иностранному языку, принятого Министерством образования и науки КР.

Учебник разработан с учётом принципа наглядности и коммуникативной и профессиональной направленности обучения иностранному языку в старших классах школы. Его ведущая функция — подготовка учащихся к использованию английского языка как средства межкультурного общения. Данная функция реализуется посредством углубления знаний по грамматике и лексике английского языка, полученных на предыдущих этапах обучения, дальнейшего совершенствования всех видов речевой деятельности, включая письмо, а также путём расширения знаний о своей стране, странах изучаемого языка и о мире в целом. Учебник также развивает навыки критического мышления и тем самым готовит учащихся к обучению в высших учебных заведениях.

Учебник рассчитан на 68 часов (2 аудиторных часа в неделю при 34 неделях в учебном году). К концу обучения при достаточной практике и выполнении всех рекомендаций учителя учащиеся должны достигнуть уровня B1 — порогового уровня Общеевропейских компетенций владения иностранным языком.

Lesson 2

1. Look at the pictures that show Azamat's life story. Put the events in the order in which you think they happened.

2. a) Look at the words and phrases in the box. If necessary, check the meaning in your dictionary or with your teacher.

to repair	an auto service and repair shop	a trainee to be interested in	to figure out	dirty hands hands-on experience	cuts, bruises, and aches	successful to enter college	valuable	a challenge
a skilled mechanic	to run your own business	to fix

b) Which of these words and phrases apply to each picture in exercise 1? Explain your answers in pairs.

3. Read or listen and compare the text to your answers to exercise 1.

When I was a kid, I was interested in bikes and cars. I always wanted to figure out how things worked, or why they stopped working. I used to spend hours in my father's garage repairing his old moped. I didn't mind getting my hands dirty. When I was fifteen, I entered the Car and Road College in Bishkek. I decided to study Maintenance and Repair of Motor Vehicles.

While I was studying at college, I began working as a trainee in an auto service and repair shop. After I had been working for a year or two, I learned virtually every type of repair. This hands-on experience was really valuable. A good mechanic learns from doing, not reading.

Being a mechanic was not that easy. Repairing cars every day resulted in cuts and bruises and aches in places I didn't even know existed! It was hard work, but I liked it. Every day brought some type of surprise or challenge. I loved the challenges because they were opportunities to learn. I also loved the feeling of fixing something that no one else could.

I'd been in the industry for about fifteen years when I decided to open my own auto service and repair shop. The first years were hard. With so much competition, I had to find creative ways of advertising to attract new customers. And of course, I had to find skilled mechanics – those who knew their job well.

Now, as I've been running my own shop for more than ten years, I can say that to be successful in any field, you need to be good at what you do and be willing to work hard.

4. Read or listen again and answer the questions.

1) What did Azamat enjoy doing in his free time when he was a child?
2) Where and what did he study after finishing school?
3) Does he think that working as a trainee mechanic was useful for him? Why or why not?
4) What is a mechanic's work like? Why?
5) Why was it hard for Azamat to run his own auto service and repair shop at the beginning?
6) According to Azamat, what is the secret to a successful career?

5. Work in pairs. Look at the pictures in exercise 1 and retell Azamat's life story using the words in exercise 2.

6. Discuss the following questions.

a) What do you think of Azamat?
b) Why do you think his childhood dream came true?
c) Do you agree that to be successful in any field, you need to be good at what you do? Why or why not?

Lessons 3–4

1. The sentences below come from Azamat's life story. Which verb form is best in each sentence? Why?

a) I always wanted / was always wanting to figure out how things worked.
b) When I was / was being fifteen, I had entered / entered the Car and Road College in Bishkek.
c) While I studied / was studying at college, I began / had begun working as a trainee in an auto service and repair shop.
d) After I was working / had been working for a year or two, I learned / had learned virtually every type of repair.
e) Every day had brought / brought some type of surprise or challenge.
f) I had been / was in the industry for about fifteen years when I had decided / decided to have my own auto service and repair shop.

2. a) Look at the verbs you selected in the sentences in exercise 1 and find:

a) four regular verbs in the past simple
b) three irregular verbs in the past simple
c) an example of the past continuous
d) an example of the past perfect simple
e) an example of the past perfect continuous

b) How are the past simple, past continuous, past perfect simple, and past perfect continuous verbs formed?

Language focus

Choose the correct alternative to complete the rules. Find examples for each rule in exercise 1.

a) The past simple / past continuous shows complete, simple actions in the past – usually the main events in the story.

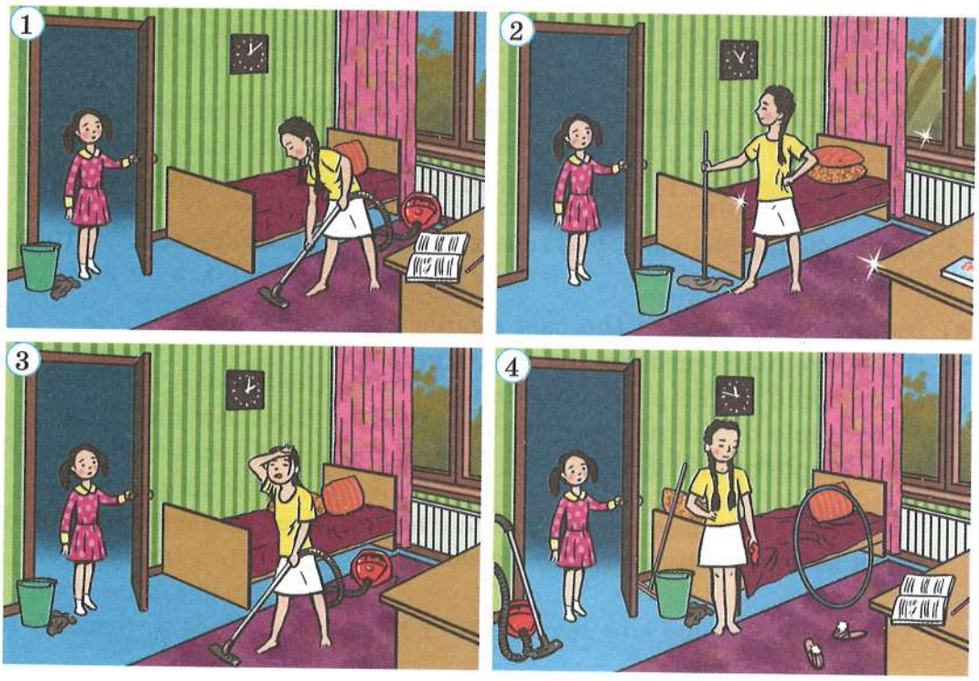
b) The past simple / past continuous shows actions in progress at a time in the past. They often start before and continue after the main event of the story.

c) The past simple / past continuous is usually used for verbs that describe states.

d) The past simple / past perfect simple shows complete, simple actions or states before the main events in the story.

e) The past perfect simple / past perfect continuous emphasises duration, and often shows actions that continue up until the main past events.

3. Match the pictures and the sentences.



a) When Aizhan came home, her sister had cleaned her room.

b) When Aizhan came home, her sister was cleaning her room.

c) When Aizhan came home, her sister cleaned her room.
d) When Aizhan came home, her sister had been cleaning her room for two hours.

4. Read the sentences about Aigul's day and put the pictures in the correct order.

Example: F, D, ...

1. By the time she played the piano, Aigul had already done her homework.
2. By the time Aigul spoke to her friend on the phone, she had already watered the plants and cleaned her room.
3. Aigul had already watered the plants and played the piano by the time she cleaned her room.
4. Aigul had already played the piano by the time she watered the plants.
5. By the time Aigul watched TV, she had already done her homework.
6. By the time Aigul played the piano, she had already watched TV.

5. a) Read the urban myth and complete the gaps with the correct form of the verbs in brackets.

A young lady (1) had been shopping (shop) all day and felt really tired. She finally (2) _____ (finish) her shopping and (3) _____ (go) back to her car with her packages. When she (4) _____ (get) to the car, she (5) _____ (see) an old woman sleeping in the back seat. She (6) _____ (wake) the woman up and (7) _____ (ask) what she (8) _____ (do) in her car. The woman (9) _____ (say) that she (10) _____ (get) lost looking for the bus and (11) _____ (get) so tired that she just had to sit somewhere to rest, and asked the young lady to give her a lift home or to the nearest bus stop. The young lady (12) _____ (not believe) her. She (13) _____ (say) that she would be right back and (14) _____ (return) to the mall. She (15) _____ (tell) security that a strange old woman (16) _____ (get) into her car. When a security guard and the young woman (17) _____ (come back) to the car, they (18) _____ (find out) that the old woman (19) _____ (disappear), but there (20) _____ (be) a purse full of gold coins lying in the back seat.

b) Put the events of the urban myth in chronological order. Where did the story begin?

a) The young lady saw the old woman sleeping in the back seat of her car.
b) The young lady returned to the mall.
c) The old woman asked the young lady to give her a lift.
d) The old woman fell asleep.
e) The young lady finished shopping.
f) The young lady and a security guard came back to the car.
g) The young lady started shopping.
h) The young lady went back to her car.
i) The old woman disappeared.
j) The young lady and a security guard found a purse full of gold coins lying in the back seat.
k) The old woman got into her car.

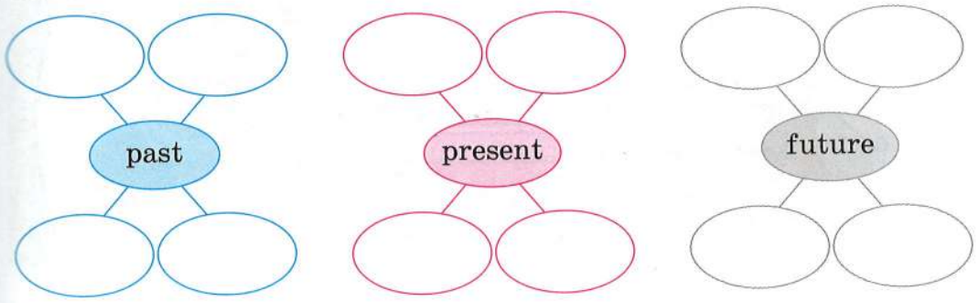
c) Do you have an explanation for the story? Who was the old woman? Where did she get the money?

Lesson 5

1. a) Copy the diagram below into your notebook and prepare a story about your life. Include key words about the following topics:

- when/where you were born
- parents/family background
- childhood dreams and ambitions
- your home/places where you've lived
- your studies (where/when)
- memorable journeys/holidays/events, etc.
- interests and hobbies
- the people closest to you in the past and the present
- hopes and ambitions for the long-term future

Name _____



b) You are going to tell other students about your life. Think about what you will say and how you will say it. Look at the phrases below to help you.

I was born in ...
I grew up in ...
I moved to ...
I started/left school in ...
I became interested in ...
My childhood dream was ...
My childhood dream came true in ...
I'm thinking of ...
I'm hoping to ...
I'd like to ...
My biggest dream is ...
My dream job is ...

2. a) Work in pairs. Tell each other about your lives. Answer any questions your partner has.
b) Present your partner's life story to other students in class. Choose the most interesting and most important points.

Now look at WB: Unit 1 Lesson 5 Writing

Lesson 6

1. Look at the picture and answer the questions.

Who is the man in the picture? Where is he? What is he doing?
Who do you think the boy in the picture is? How is he feeling? Why?

2. Read or listen to Akyl's conversation with his dad. Why is Akyl worried? What is he going to do?

Akyl: Morning!

Dad: You look worried. Is everything OK?

Akyl: Yes, I am fine. It's just the lesson we had yesterday.

Dad: What lesson?

Akyl: Social studies. We talked about choosing a career and how important this decision is ...

Dad: I see. Well, it is an important decision, but you have plenty of time to think carefully, don't you?

Akyl: I know, I know. But what if I make a bad choice and then I hate every single day of my life?

Dad: Calm down – you shouldn't think that you will never be able to make changes in your life! After all, scholars predict that in the future people will frequently have to change their professions. Some professions will disappear because nobody will need them and some new ones will appear...

Akyl: I see. But I really don't know where to start. How did you choose your profession?

Dad: Well, I always knew it would have to be related to cars. They were my passion since an early age. What are you interested in?

Akyl: Um, I like reading about animals and nature... Biology is my favourite subject at school. But I don't think I want to become a biologist.

Dad: Hmm. There are lots of other jobs that require a good knowledge of biology: a health educator, a biochemist, a vet, a pharmacist, and many others. You just need to do some research about different professions, find out what people have to do in various jobs, what kind of skills and knowledge they need, and then think about yourself. Is it interesting to you? Do you have the abilities needed in this job? Will this profession be in demand in the future?

Akyl: I can't answer the last question, but I can definitely learn about different professions and see which one suits me best! Well, thank you. Now, I know what to do.

3. Discuss the following questions.

a) What are the three steps people can take when choosing their profession according to Akyl's dad?
b) Do you know any other ways to decide on your future career?
c) Do you know which professions that are popular nowadays might disappear in the future? Why do you think they will disappear?
d) Do you know which professions will be in demand in the future?
e) Have you decided on your future profession? If yes, what is it? Why have you chosen it?

4. Look through the dialogue in exercise 2 again. Use the words in bold to complete the glossary below.

Glossary

1. require verb: to need someone or something
2. _____ phrase: to be wanted by a lot of people
3. _____ noun [C]: a job or profession that someone works at for a long time
4. _____ adj.: connected
5. _____ verb: to be right for someone
6. _____ noun [C]: a strong enthusiasm or interest
7. _____ noun [C]: someone who has studied a subject and knows a lot about it
8. _____ adj.: several, different
9. _____ phrasal verb: to begin to feel more relaxed and less emotional

UNIT 2: DAY IN, DAY OUT

In this unit you will:

- learn phrasal verbs to talk about daily routines;
- read or listen to a text about a day in the life of an American teenager;
- learn some common verb patterns;
- talk about your daily routine;
- do a class survey;
- learn about freelancing.

Lesson 1

1. Look at the pictures and study the phrasal verbs.

go off	wake up	get up	sleep in dress up	stay up	tidy up	go out eat out	stay in	come around	drop off

2. Replace the underlined phrases with the correct form of the phrasal verbs from exercise 1.

a) During the week I usually stop sleeping about 7 a.m. wake up
b) Sometimes my friends visit me in my home and we chat about music and school.
c) On weekdays, I usually stay at home and watch something on YouTube or Instagram in the evening.
d) At the weekends, I love sleeping later in the morning than usual. I often stay in bed until noon.
e) I usually wake up as soon as my alarm clock starts making a noise.
f) My family often eats in a restaurant to celebrate somebody's birthday.
g) My brother never gets out of bed before ten.
h) When I was little, my mom never let me leave our house and go anywhere until I did all my homework.
i) I like to wear formal clothes for special occasions. I don't understand people who wear everyday clothes to weddings or other special occasions.
j) My grandma often falls asleep in front of the TV.
k) My mom makes me clean and put things in order in my room every night before I go to bed.
l) I don't usually go to bed at my usual time if I have an exam the next day.

3. a) Discuss the questions with your partner.

a) Do you use an alarm clock to wake up in the morning?
b) How much time do you need to get up?
c) Do you ever sleep in at the weekends? What time do you normally get up?
d) How often do you eat out? Do you have a favourite place?
e) Do you like to dress up? Why or why not?
f) Do you prefer going out or staying in at the weekends? Why?
g) Do you ever drop off on long journeys?
h) Do you have to tidy up your room? How often do you have to do it?
i) Have you ever stayed up all night? Why? What did you do?

b) Tell the class what you have learned about your partner. Try to use the phrasal verbs from exercise 1.

Example: Adilet always drops off on long journeys. When he goes to Issyk-Kul, he falls asleep as soon as he gets into the car.

Lesson 2

1. You are going to read about a day in the life of an American teenager. Before you read the text, look at the statements below. Do you think the following statements are true or false?

a) Her school starts really early.
b) She has to dress up for school.
c) She has a big breakfast.
d) She goes to school by bus.
e) She spends a lot of time at school.
f) She doesn't like studying.
g) She spends a lot of time on social media.
h) She tends to multitask.
i) She usually has dinner with her family.

2. Read or listen and compare the text to your answers to exercise 1.

A day in the life of an American teenager

5:30 AM My alarm clock goes off. I hit the snooze button.

5:40 AM My alarm clock goes off again. I hit the snooze button again and pretend to be dead.

5:50 AM My alarm clock goes off again. I wake up and spend the next ten minutes thinking about my life. What's the use of school again? Mom yells from another room to tell me to get up.

6:00 AM I finally get out of my bed and go to the bathroom. I try not to fall asleep while taking a shower. It has happened many times before!

6:15 AM I brush my hair and attempt to put in my contacts while trying not to fall asleep. It's pretty hard to put in contacts when your eyes are practically closed. Then I get dressed. I don't have to wear a uniform or anything special, so that doesn't take much time.

6:30 AM I go downstairs and have breakfast: a bagel with cream cheese or cereal and coffee. My bus comes at 6:50 so I can't really make a good breakfast.

6:50 AM I catch the bus at the end of the street, put in earphones, and listen to music on the way to school. I enjoy listening to music.

7:30 AM – 2:30 PM School. I enjoy most of my classes, but some days they seem to be either too long or too difficult. I make myself do the work though, because I need good grades.

2:30 PM The bell rings, but I can't go home until 6:30. I have volunteering from 2:45 to 3:15, and from 3:30 to 6:30 I have marching band.

7:00 PM I'm home. I change into my pajamas. I have dinner, sadly, alone because everyone comes home at different hours. So, while I eat, I just scroll through Instagram or Facebook, watch a few YouTube videos, and text my best friend who, unfortunately, goes to another school.

7:30 PM I start studying and doing homework... As if I haven't been doing just that since 7:30 AM.

9:30 PM I usually finish studying. I grab some food and watch TV with my family or just sit with them while I'm on my phone.

11:00 PM I'm in bed, all ready to sleep, but I usually stay up for an hour or two browsing social media. I drop off around 1 AM.

3. a) Discuss the questions with your partner.

a) Do you think her day is typical of a high-school student? Why or why not?

b) What is your day like? What do you do at the times mentioned in the text?

c) How much time do you spend online on an average day? What do you do in your online time?

b) Tell the class any interesting information you have learned about your partner.

Lessons 3–4

1. a) Complete the sentences with the correct form of the verbs.

a) I hit the snooze button again and pretend to be (be) dead.
b) I spend the next ten minutes _____ (think) about my life.
c) Mom yells from another room to tell me _____ (get up).
d) I try _____ (not fall) asleep while taking a shower.
e) I brush my hair and attempt _____ (put in) my contacts.
f) I enjoy _____ (listen) to music.
g) Some days my classes seem _____ (be) either too long or too difficult.
h) I make myself _____ (do) the work.
i) I usually finish _____ (study) at 10 p.m.

b) Find the sentences in the text from lesson 2, exercise 2 and check the verbs.

Language focus

Write the verbs from exercise 1 in the correct column.

verb + to V1	verb + sb + to V1	verb + sb + V1	verb + Ving pretend to do sth

Work with a partner to place the verbs below in the correct column above.

advise	promise	let	decide expect	avoid	teach	need plan	hope	can't afford	offer
ask	suggest	look forward to	would like help	don't mind	want

2. Choose the correct alternative.

a) I don't mind/want/need doing the washing-up.

Lesson 6

1. Look at the picture. Where is Akyl? What is he doing? What kind of job do you think would be ideal for Akyl? Why?

2. a) Read the Beginner's Guide to Freelancing below and match each paragraph with the question it answers.

What are freelancing jobs?
~~What is freelancing?~~
What are the drawbacks of freelancing?
How do I become a successful freelancer?
What are the benefits of freelancing?

a) What is freelancing?

Freelancing is working for multiple clients without committing to a single employer. Freelancers are self-employed, which means they work for themselves, and they usually, but not always, work from home.

b) _____

Nearly half of freelancers do writing work. This includes copywriting, press release writing, blog post writing, etc. Freelancing is also quite common in web design, computer programming, graphic design, translating, the music industry, and other fields.

c) _____

The best part about freelancing is that you can work flexible hours. Since you do not have to work nine-to-five, you do not have to wake up to an alarm clock and rush to get ready for work in the morning. You can work early in the morning or late at night. If you get tired or bored, you can take an afternoon nap. You design your own schedule depending on when you are most productive. Another benefit of freelancing is that you are your own boss. Nobody is looking over your shoulder to check what you are doing. Because you have control over your jobs and clients, it is up to you to take on work or reject it. Finally, being a freelancer, you can earn as much as you want. It all depends on how much and how well you work.

d) _____

Although freelancing looks like a wonderful option, there are some drawbacks. First of all, it is really difficult to stay focused and work to a deadline when there are so many distractions around you. It can also be difficult to separate your work time from your personal life. This means that you can work long hours and never make time for your personal interests. Therefore, time management and discipline are very important for a freelancer, especially one working from home. Another problem is that being a freelancer means that your income and your workload are unstable. For the most part, you can't depend on any regular project or client. Additionally, freelancers do not receive employment benefits such as a pension, sick leave, paid holidays, bonuses, or health insurance, which can be a serious problem.

e) _____

In freelancing, success depends on how well you satisfy your clients. If you do your work well and meet deadlines, your clients will become regular clients and will recommend you to their friends and colleagues who need the services you provide.

b) Cover the text and work with a partner. Answer the questions before the text in exercise 2a.

3. Discuss the questions with your partner.

a) What do you think a freelancer's typical day is like?
b) What kind of people do you think can become successful freelancers?
c) Would you like to work freelance? Why or why not?
d) If you were a freelancer, what kind of work would you do?

4. Look through the article in exercise 2 again. Use the words and phrases in bold to complete the glossary below.

UNIT 3: IN PLAIN ENGLISH

In this unit you will:

- learn some common collocations with the word language;
- read a text about language death;
- learn about real conditionals (zero conditional and first conditional);
- talk about success in language learning;
- learn what it is like to be a translator.

Lesson 1

1. Look at the picture. What languages do they speak? Do you know how to say 'hello' in any other language?

2. a) Complete the sentences with the adjectives in the box.

ancient	common	computer	dead
first/native	~~foreign~~	international	official

a) Pablo can speak two foreign languages: Japanese and Korean.
b) Nobody speaks Latin nowadays. It is a _____ language.
c) Emma grew up in Germany, so her _____ language is German.

d) Canada has two _____ languages: French and English.
e) My friend is from France and I am from Kyrgyzstan, but we both speak English. So English is our _____ language.
f) An _____ language is spoken and learned by people in different countries. It is also used in international organizations and diplomatic relations.
g) A system of coding or programming a computer is called a _____ language.
h) An _____ language is any language that existed before the 5th century, for example, the Sanskrit language.

b) Can you give examples of the types of languages mentioned in exercise 2a?

Example: Hebrew is an ancient language. Sanskrit is a dead language.

3. a) Discuss the questions with your partner.

a) How many languages do you speak apart from your native language? What languages do you speak?
b) Is there a language you understand but can't speak?
c) Which language do you use at home / at school/ with your friends?
d) Is your native language spoken in any other country? Where?

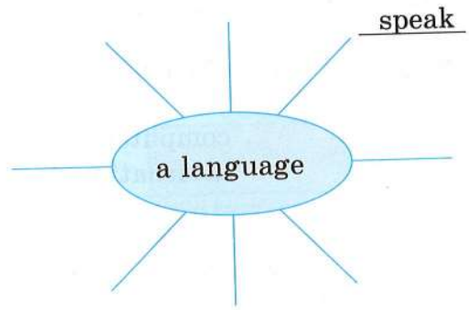
g) What do you think the phrase 'mind your language' means?
h) Would you like to teach your native language or a foreign language? Why or why not?

b) Copy the chart into your notebook and complete it with the verbs from exercise 3a.



Lesson 2

1. Read the title of the article in exercise 3. What do you think language death is? Why do you think it happens?

2. Copy the chart into your notebook. Work with a partner and complete the first column with statements about language death. Write questions you have about language death in the second column.

I know...	I want to know...	I learned ...

3. Read the article and compare it to your ideas in the first column in exercise 2. Can you now answer any of the questions you wrote in the second column?

Language death: is it a real threat?

Scholars say that there is nothing unusual about a language dying out. The history of humanity is full of examples of dead languages, among which Latin, Ancient Greek, and Sanskrit are the most cited. But what is happening today is extraordinary because, according to linguists, one language dies out every two weeks or so. At this rate, of the 7,000 languages spoken in the world today, about half could die by the end of the twenty-first century. So, what is language death and why does it happen?

If we consider language as a tool of communication, then a language will be alive as long as there are native speakers of that language. In this sense, a language dies if it loses its last speaker who could pass on his or her knowledge of language to his or her children.

Another reason a language might die out is the spread of dominant languages such as English, Spanish, or Arabic. More and more communities are switching to politically and economically more powerful languages, because young people prefer to learn and speak languages that allow them to get a better education and a better job. Nowadays, the spread of dominant languages has become easier than ever through the media. For example, over half of internet content is in English. So it's no surprise that young people are so attracted to English, which has become the most powerful, dominant language of modern times.

So, why should we care? Wouldn't it be great if we all shared a common language? Scholars often compare linguistic diversity with the biodiversity of our planet. Every time a species of animals or plants dies out, we lose an important piece of the puzzle. The more pieces we lose, the less interesting the puzzle becomes. The same is true for languages. Languages store a wealth of knowledge. Each language is a unique way to see and think about the world. When a language dies, we lose some knowledge about the world.

To conclude, the future of a language is very much dependent on the number of children who grow up speaking it natively. If children do not learn to speak their native language fluently, they will not pass that language on to their own children. Thus, speaking our native language and learning other languages is a way to prevent language death. The more languages we know, the more powerful we become.

4. a) Decide whether the statements are true or false.

a) In the past, languages never disappeared.
b) The speed at which language death is happening nowadays is very unusual and surprising.
c) Giving your children the ability to speak a native language that you received from your parents is the best way to stop language death.
d) Nowadays some languages are more powerful and successful than others for economic and political reasons.
e) A situation in which many different languages exist is not good for all people.
f) Humans keep their knowledge about the world with the help of language.
g) If you speak more than one language freely, you have more economic and social benefits.

b) Replace the underlined words and phrases with the words in bold in the article in exercise 3.

5. What have you learned about language death? Complete the third column of the table in exercise 2.

6. Choose one question from the second column that you couldn't answer after reading the article. Go online and try to find the answer to this question. Prepare a short talk about what you've learned.

Lessons 3–4

1. a) Put the words in order to make sentences from the article about language death. Write the sentences in your notebook.

a) A / its / dies / speaker / loses / if / it / language / last /
A language dies if it loses its last speaker.

b) we / the / lose / When / a / dies, / knowledge / language / some / world / about

c) there / A / native speakers / will be / language / alive / are / of that language / as long as

d) their native language / that language / If / do not / on to / learn / children / to speak / fluently, / their own children / pass / will not / they

b) Find the sentences from exercise 1a in the article in lesson 2, exercise 3 and check your answers.

2. a) Look at the sentences in exercise 1 and answer the questions.

- How many parts (or 'clauses') does each sentence have?
- Which one is the main clause in each sentence?
- Which one is the if-clause in each sentence?
- Can the if-clause go before the main clause? How do you punctuate such sentences?

b) Look at sentences (a) and (b) from exercise 1a and answer the questions.

- Are these sentences about the future? Are these sentences about something that always happens, or things that happen in the same way every time?
- Find the verbs in each clause of sentences (a) and (b). What tense are they?
- Which word connects the main clause and the if-clause in each sentence?

c) Look at sentences (c) and (d) from exercise 1a and answer the questions.

- Are these sentences about the future? Is the speaker confident about his predictions?
- Find the verbs in each clause of sentences (c) and (d). What tense are they?
- Which word connects the main clause and the if-clause in each sentence?
- What does as long as mean?

d) Read the sentences below and answer the questions.

If children do not learn to speak their native language fluently, th will not pass that language on to their own children.
Unless children learn to speak their native language fluently, th
will not pass that language on to their own children

- Do these sentences have the same meaning?
- What does the word unless mean?
- Is the verb after unless positive or negative?

Language focus

Match the sentences from exercise 1 with the rules below.

Zero conditional (always true)

If When	+ subject + present simple, subject + present simple

First conditional (real possibility in the future)

If As long as Unless	+ subject + present simple, subject + will + V1

3. Complete the answers using the words given.

a) What happens if you drink poison?
If you drink poison, you die.
b) What happens when you mix blue and yellow paint?
When you _____ get gr
c) What happens if plants do not get enough water?
If plants _____
d) What does water turn into when the temperature drops below ze
When the temperature _____
e) What happens if you drop a glass on the floor?
If you _____ br
f) What happens when you heat ice?
When you _____ m
g) What happens if iron gets wet?
If iron _____ r

4. Use the words given to make first conditional sentences including if and will. Make any necessary changes.

a) you / eat / too much sugar / you / put on / weight
If you eat too much sugar, you will put on weight.
b) you / not / pass / the exams / you / not / study / hard
c) I / be surprised / she / be / not / late/ for / school / today
d) you / eat / too much / you / have / a stomach ache
e) you / not / do / your homework / you / get / a bad grade
f) she / break up / with her boyfriend / he / not / call / her / tonight
g) I/ fail / my exams / I / not get / into / university

5. Rewrite the sentences using unless or as long as. Make any necessary changes.

a) If you don't study hard, you won't pass your exams.
You won't pass your exams unless you study hard.
b) If you promise to be back by 10 p.m., you can go out.
c) I will help you with your homework if you don't want to try to do it by yourself.
d) I think I will go for a walk tomorrow if it doesn't rain.
e) If you don't eat and sleep properly, you won't be healthy.
f) Children are usually allowed to have pets if they promise to take care of them.
g) My parents don't care what profession I will choose if I am happy with my choice.
h) If you study regularly, you will improve your English.

6. a) Complete the sentences so that they are true for you.

a) I will study tonight if I am not too tired.
b) I will buy a new _____ if _____
c) If I have enough time _____, I _____
d) Unless the weather is bad _____, _____
e) As long as I have enough money, _____
f) When I next see my best friend, _____
g) I always _____ when _____
h) If I get angry, I usually _____

b) Compare your sentences with a partner. Tell the class any interesting information you have learned.

Lesson 5

1. a) Work with a partner to complete the metaphors about language learning.

a) Learning a language is like learning to drive a car because ...
b) Learning a language is like losing weight because ...
c) Learning a language is like getting a tattoo, because ...
d) Learning a language is like climbing a mountain, because ...
e) Learning a language is like ...

Example:

Learning a language is like learning to drive a car, because when you start learning a new language, you learn lots of rules. But unless you apply them while communicating with other people, you will not become a speaker of that language. When you learn to drive a car, you should learn all the traffic rules, but it doesn't make you a driver. You need hours and hours of practice to apply those rules on a road.

b) Share your ideas with the class.

2. a) Work with a partner and look through the list of some habits successful language learners have. Do you agree with them? Explain why these are good habits.

a) Good language learners have a clear goal.
b) Good language learners are not afraid to make mistakes.
c) Good language learners study a little bit every day.
d) Good language learners review regularly.
e) Good language learners know how they study best.

Example:

Good language learners have a clear goal. If you understand why you are studying a foreign language, you will be motivated to do it. Also, a clear goal helps you continue studying when you feel disappointed or when you fail.

b) Share your ideas with the class.

3. a) Work in small groups and think of some other things successful language learners do. Explain why you think these things are the key to their success.

b) Prepare an oral presentation that summarizes your discussion in exercise 3a. Decide who will say what. Use the expressions in the box to help you express your ideas.

Presenting the do's of language learning

Good language learners	always remember to ... try to ... practise +Ving ... allow plenty of time for ...	because ...

Presenting the don'ts of language learning

Good language learners	avoid +Ving ... try not to ... don't let ... happen ...	because ...

Presenting both

It's important (not) to ...
You should always/never ...
Make sure that you (don't) ...
If/Unless you ..., ... will happen.
As long as ..., ... will happen.

Now look at WB: Unit 3 Lesson 5 Writing

Lesson 6

1. Look at the picture. What is the woman's job? What do you know about this job? Do you think it is interesting? Would you like to do it? Why or why not?

2. a) You are going to read a conversation between Akyl and Dinara, who is a translator. Read the questions Akyl is going to ask. How do you think Dinara will answer them?

- How did you become a translator?
- What has been your biggest professional challenge?
- What do you enjoy most about being a translator?
- What is the worst thing about working as a translator?
- What advice would you give to someone who wants to become a translator?

b) Read and compare the text to your answers to exercise 2a.

Akyl: How did you become a translator?

Dinara: Well, I have always loved languages. When I was at school, I had a fantastic English teacher who was so enthusiastic about her job that all the students tried to do their best in her class. When I finished school, I knew that I wanted to study languages at university. I spent five years studying English and French and, after I graduated, I started out as an English teacher. I liked working with children, but I was more interested in enhancing my knowledge of the language than my ability to teach children. So, I started translating texts in my free time. It really was a challenge to produce a good translation, but I loved it. That is where it all started.

Akyl: What has been your biggest professional challenge?

Dinara: That's a good question. I mean, translating is a challenging job. No two documents are alike, so every single one that appears on my desk presents a new little puzzle to solve and at least one new thing for me to learn. In this profession, I'm always challenged, I'm always learning, and I'm never bored.

Akyl: What do you enjoy most about being a translator?

Dinara: The interesting texts I get to read and translate — I have learned so much about different fields! Also, I like the freedom to work on the texts whenever I like. Of course, I have to meet deadlines, but I am a freelance translator, so I have a lot of independence and can work anytime and anywhere.

Akyl: What is the worst thing about working as a translator?

Dinara: Well, the worst thing about working as a language translator is that it is hard to make plans in advance, because you never know how busy you will be at any given time in the future. My clients sometimes contact me at the weekends, and they need the translation to be done urgently, so I often have to work at the weekends or during holidays when everybody else is having fun.

Akyl: What advice would you give to someone who wants to become a translator?

Dinara: So many young people are dreaming about becoming translators thinking they are going to work for governmental organizations, travel to international summits, and translate speeches of important politicians, when this is actually an interpreter's job, not a translator's (and it requires so many other skills, such as memory, public speaking, etc.). Even the translators that do work for such organizations have to go through a long selection process and have to speak more than two languages fluently. And even if you do speak 3 of 4 languages and pass the exam, there are only a small number of translation jobs available in these organizations. Most of the translators in the world work freelance from their homes and translate ordinary documents. So, if you want to become a translator, you need to clearly understand what kind of work it is. Also, if you want to be famous, you shouldn't become a translator. This is an invisible job. You can work for three months translating a website, but you might never see your name on the website.

3. Discuss the questions with your partner.

a) After reading the conversation, would you like to becon a translator? Why or why not?
b) What kind of people is this job ideal for? Why?
c) What's the difference between a translator and an interpreter What skills and knowledge do you think each of them needs?
d) Do you think translators will be replaced by machines in the future Why or why not?

4. Look through the conversation in exercise 2 again. Use the word and phrases in bold to complete the glossary below.

Glossary

1. go through phrasal verb: to perform a series of actions; to follow a procedure
2. _____ adj.: similar
3. _____ phrase: to try as hard as you can
4. _____ noun [C]: a meeting between leaders of countries
5. _____ verb: to improve
6. _____ adj.: describes something that cannot be seen
7. _____ phrase: before a particular time
8. _____ noun [C]: someone whose job is to translate what someone is saying into another language
9. _____ adj.: very interested in something or excited about it
10. _____ noun: [C/U] the process of choosing one person or thing from a group

UNIT 4: MONEY, MONEY, MONEY...

In this unit you will:

- learn some common verbs that go with the word money;
- learn about unreal conditionals (second, third, and mixed conditionals);
- talk about dreams and regrets;
- learn what it is like to work as an accountant.

Lesson 1

k) What do you do when you run out of money?
l) Do your parents give you any pocket money? How often do they do it?
m) Do you have anything that is worth a lot of money? What is it?

Lesson 2

1. Look at the picture. Is the man rich? Does he want to be rich? What do you think he is dreaming about? Read the text and compare it to your ideas.

If I were a millionaire, I would have a lot of money. I would live in a beautiful mansion, drive an expensive car, and wear designer clothes. I would travel around the world and visit the most exotic places. I could do whatever I wanted, and I would have the time of my life!

2. Look at the text in exercise 1 and answer the questions.

a) Is it about a real situation or an imaginary situation?
b) Is the text about the past or about the present / general time?
c) Read the first sentence of the text again. Which verb form comes after if? Which verb form do we use in the main clause of the sentence? Make this sentence negative.
d) Can the main clause go before the if-clause? When do you need a comma between the main clause and the if-clause?
e) When we talk about imaginary situations, do we always have to use two clauses in a sentence? Can we use only the main clause? Which verb form do we use then? Can we use any other verbs besides would in the main clause?

Language focus

Complete the rule.

Second conditional is used to talk about dreams in the present / general time.

If + subject + _____ simple, subject + _____ + V1.

*Notice that was can change to were in the if-clause after I/he/she/it.

3. a) Complete the sentences with the correct form of the verbs.

a) If I saw (see) a ghost, I would scream (scream).
b) I _____ (buy) a new laptop if I _____ (can afford) to.
c) I _____ (go) travelling if I _____ (have) enough money
d) If I _____ (not waste) so much money, I _____ (can sav up) for a new smartphone.
e) If I _____ (can speak) Japanese, I _____ (visit) Tokyo.
f) If it _____ (be) summer, we _____ (not / have to study
g) I _____ (study) better if I _____ (have) more time.
h) If I _____ (be) an animal, I _____ (be) a cat.
i) I _____ (speak) English fluently if I _____ (live) in th USA.

b) Which sentences are true for you? Compare with your partner.

4. a) Read the sentences.

If I were rich, I would give a lot of money to charity.

If I gave a lot of money to charity, I would make a lot of peop happier.

If I made a lot of people happier, all people would respect me.

If all people respected me, I would start thinking about politics.

If I started thinking about politics, I would run for the presidency.

b) Work in small groups. Make more 'chains' of conditional sentences like the one above. Begin with the ideas below:

If people didn't use money, ...
If I could become invisible for a day, ...
If I became a world leader, ...
If I had only a month to live, ...

5. a) Complete the sentences so that they are true for you. Some of them are about a real possibility in the future. Some of them are about an unreal situation in the present / general time.

a) If I were rich, I would buy an island to live on.
b) If I learn to speak English fluently, ...
c) If I could live anywhere in the world, ...
d) If I were famous, ...
e) If I could turn back time, ...
f) If I go out at the weekend, ...
g) If I get a good grade tomorrow, ...

b) Compare your sentences in exercise 5a with a partner. Tell the class any interesting information you have learned.

6. a) Complete the questions with the correct form of the verbs. Then ask your partner these questions.

a) How would your life be different if you _____ (win) a million dollars in a lottery?
b) How would your life be different if you _____ (be) a vegetarian?
c) How would your life be different if you _____ (can read) other people's minds?
d) How would your life be different if you _____ (have) famous parents?
e) How would your life be different if you _____ (be) five years old now?
f) How would your life be different if you _____ (be) on holidays now?

b) Tell the class any interesting information you have learned about your partner.

Lesson 3

1. Look at the pictures and explain the story to a partner.

2. Read the sentence below and answer the questions.

If I had tried it on before I bought it, I would have selected the correct size.

a) Had she tried the dress on before she bought it? Did she select the correct size? Is this sentence about the past or the present? Can she change what happened? Is it about a real situation or an imaginary situation?

b) Which verb form comes after if? Which verb form do we use in the main clause of the sentence? Make this sentence negative. Can we use any other verbs besides would in the main clause?

c) Can the main clause go before the if-clause? When do you need a comma between the main clause and the if-clause?

Language focus

Complete the rule.

Third conditional is used to express regrets about past actions.

If + subject + past _____, subject + _____ + have + V3.

3. a) Match an event in box A with a consequence in box B.

A	B
1. I lost my wallet.	a) I got a bad grade.
2. I wasted a lot of money on clothes.	b) I didn't visit you in hospital.
3. I overslept.	c) We couldn't go to the mountains.

6. It rained all weekend.	f) I didn't buy lunch at school.
7. My friend lent me some money.	g) I ran out of money.

b) Write sentences with if about the events and consequences.

Example: If I hadn't lost my wallet, I would have bought lunch at school.

4. a) Rewrite the summary using conditional sentences to show how things might have been different.

Kamila overslept → She didn't go to school. → She went for a walk. → → She met a strange woman in the street. → The woman gave her a kitten. → Kamila took the kitten home. → Kamila's mother got angry with her.

Example: If Kamila hadn't overslept, she would have gone to school. If she had gone to school ...

b) Write a similar chain of conditional sentences about a series of events in your life. Compare your sentences with a partner.

Lesson 4

1. Look at the pictures. What does she regret about?

2. Read the sentences below and answer the questions.

If I had selected the correct size, it would look perfect on me.

a) Did she select the correct size? Does the dress look perfect on h Is this sentence about the past or the present? Can she change w

c) Can the main clause go before the if-clause? When do you n a comma between the main clause and the if-clause?

If I were rich, I would have ordered two different sizes of the sa dress.

d) Is she rich? Did she order two different sizes of the dress?
this sentence about the past or the present? Can she change w happened? Is it about a real situation or an imaginary situatio

e) Which verb form comes after if? Which verb form do we use in main clause of the sentence? Can we use any other verbs besi would in the main clause?

f) Can the main clause go before the if-clause? When do you n a comma between the main clause and the if-clause?

Language focus

Complete the rule.

Mixed conditional is used to express regrets about past and present together.

(past) (present)
If + subject + past _____, subject + _____ + V1.

(present) (past)
If + subject + past _____, subject + _____ + have + V3.

3. Complete the two possible endings (one about the present and the other one about the past) with the correct form of the verb in brackets.

a) If Ainura and Ruslan hadn't argued with each other,
1) they would still be (still be) together now.
2) they _____ (not break up).

b) If Adilet hadn't forgotten about his sister's birthday,
1) he _____ (buy) her a present.
2) she _____ (not be) angry with him now.

c) If Zhyldyz hadn't gone to bed so late yesterday,

a) If it wasn't raining, I would have gone for a walk.
b) If my family had moved abroad when I was five, _____.
c) If I had a lot of money, I _____ a long time ago.
d) If I had never met my best friend, _____.
e) If I had been born in the USA, _____ now.
f) I wouldn't feel ill now if _____.

g) If I'd gone to bed earlier yesterday, I _____ n
h) If I were you, _____

b) Compare your sentences with a partner. Tell the class any interest information you have learned.

Lesson 5

1. a) Look at the pictures and answer the questions.

a) What do you see in the pictures? What do they have in commo
b) What adjectives can you use to describe people who like doing s things?
c) Do you think you are a generous person? Why or why not?

b) Take the quiz and see how generous you are.

1. Imagine a beggar on the street asked you to give him some mon Would you ...
   a) give him/her everything you had in your wallet?
   b) give him/her some change?
   c) pretend you didn't notice him/her and walk past?
2. Imagine you found 1,000 soms in the street.
   Would you...
   a) not pick it up and just walk past?
   b) pick it up and try to find the owner?
   c) pick it up and buy something for yourself?

   Would you...
   a) buy him/her a really good present to say 'thank you'?
   b) give him/her a small souvenir?
   c) just say 'thank you'?
6. Imagine you were in a café with your friends and the waiter brought the bill.
   Would you...
   a) offer to pay it?
   b) split it evenly?
   c) calculate what you ordered and pay exactly that?

Mostly As	Mostly Bs	Mostly Cs
You are a very generous person and spend money easily. However, you need to be more careful with your money. Remember 'Money doesn't grow on trees.'	You are usually careful with your money and don't waste it. This is a very good trait. However, make sure you don't let money control your life.	You really love money and it is important for you to have as much of it as possible. Be careful! Money can't buy real happiness and good friends.

c) Compare and discuss your answers to the quiz with a partner. Do you agree with the result of the quiz? Why or why not?

2. a) Work with a partner. Read the sayings below. What do they mean? Do you agree with them? Why or why not?

Even champions make mistakes — there is no one who doesn't.

Taiwanese proverb

We learn from our mistakes.

Italian proverb

b) Think of something you did in the past that you regret now. Complete the sentences below.

Example: Some time ago, I went shopping. I saw a beautiful pair of jeans that was quite expensive. I tried them on. They were too tight for me, but I decided to buy them anyway, thinking that I would lose some weight. I still have those jeans, but I never wear them, because they still don't fit me. If I hadn't bought those jeans, I wouldn't have wasted so much money. If I could turn back time, I would have bought something else.

Some time ago I _____.
If I hadn't _____, I would _____
_____.
If I could turn back time, I would _____.
Another thing I regret is _____.
If I _____, I _____
_____.
If I could turn back time, I would _____.

c) Work with a partner. Compare your sentences.

Now look at WB: Unit 4 Lesson 5 Writing

Lesson 6

1. What does an accountant do? Read the dictionary definition and compare it to your ideas.

An accountant — noun [C] someone whose job is to prepare or check the financial documents of a company, organization, or individual.

2. Read the joke. Did you get it?

An accountant is having difficulty sleeping at night and goes to see his doctor.
"Doctor, I just can't get to sleep at night."
"Have you tried counting sheep?"
"That's the problem — I make a mistake and then spend three hours trying to find it."

3. Read the following statements about accountants. Do you think they are true or false?

a) Accountants are all maths geniuses.
b) Accounting is only for women.
c) Being an accountant is boring.
d) Technology will replace accountants in the future.

4. Read or listen. Akyl is talking to Aijamal, who is an accountant. Find out whether, according to the dialogue, the statements in exercise 3 are true or false.

Akyl: Hello, Aijamal eje!
Aijamal: Hello, Akyl! Your mother said you wanted to talk to me about my job.
Akyl: I am doing some research about what it's like to be an accountant. Can I ask you some questions?
Aijamal: Yeah, no problem. What do you want to know?
Akyl: I've heard that to be an accountant, you need to be good at maths. Is that true?
Aijamal: Well, accountants use maths, but so do engineers, shop assistants, hairdressers, and others. If you want to get paid, you need to count how much they owe you.

Accountants use maths similarly. They need to be able to analyse numbers, but their maths skills don't need to be higher than that of the average person. Accounting is more about putting a puzzle together because accountants have to use numbers to tell the owner of a business what they need to do and what they can expect in the future.

Akyl: What is it like to be an accountant on a daily basis?

Aijamal: Although a lot of people think accountants sit behind their computers in offices, doing the same thing day after day, accounting actually offers great diversity. A typical day for me varies based on what is required at any given point in time. One day, I prepare various reports about the financial position and performance of the company. The next day, I may work with staff or clients. Of course, being an accountant might not be as exciting as other careers, like being a pilot, but it is not fair to say that accountants are constantly bored to tears. Like in any other job, some parts can be dull and monotonous, while some parts are interesting and challenging.

Akyl: Is it true that accounting is only suitable for women?

Aijamal: This is nothing but a stereotype. I don't think this job is particularly suitable for men or for women. Anybody can become a successful accountant. You just need to be adaptable, diligent, and have great attention to detail. Accountants often work in high stress situations and have to meet tight deadlines. Therefore, they need to be resilient and have good organisational skills.

Akyl: I've heard that there is a lot of very good accounting software. Do you think this job will disappear in future?

Aijamal: Technology has made accounting much simpler and more efficient, but I don't think it will eliminate accountants completely. Companies and organizations need people who can consult them. So I think technology will transform accountants, not replace them.

5. Discuss the questions with your partner.

a) Would you like to become an accountant? Why or why not?
b) What kind of people is this job ideal for? Why?
c) Do you know anybody who works as an accountant? What do they say about their job?

6. Look through the conversation in exercise 4 again. Use the words and phrases in bold to complete the glossary below.

Glossary

1. resilient adj.: able to quickly become healthy or strong again after an illness or a problem
2. _____ idiom: extremely bored

UNIT 5: THE WONDERLAND OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

In this unit you will:

- learn to name old and modern inventions;
- read or listen to some texts about inventions;
- learn and use computer collocations;
- discuss inventions;
- use the passive voice to talk about inventions and life hacks;
- learn about jobs in the IT field;
- learn about helpdesk technicians;
- write an application.

Lesson 1

1. In pairs, answer the questions. Report the most interesting information about your partner to the class.

1. How knowledgeable are you about technology?
2. What was your most recent electronics purchase? Why did you choose that item?
3. How has technology changed your life in the last 5 years? Do you think that change is an improvement?Why or why not?
4. What piece of technology could you not live without? Why?
5. Do you think that inventors have a bigger impact on our lives than businessmen and politicians? Why or why not?
6. How interested are you in new electronics?

7. What is the most positive thing about modern technology, in your opinion?
8. What piece of new technology in the last five years has most impressed you? Why?
9. How do you picture daily life in 2050?
10. Do you think most of us will be driving electric cars by 2030?

2. a) Look at the modern inventions. What did people use before? Talk to your partner and compare your ideas.

digital camera	PDA	GPS	 air conditioning
scanner	ballpoint pen	Internet	contact lenses
solar panels	computer	digital watch	iPods
jetfoil	machine gun	 sewing machine	washing machine
photocopier	touchscreen	mobile phone	car

b) Look at the items below. In pairs, match older inventions with ones we use now and explain why they are connected, e.g. they do the same thing or use the same kind of power.

heavy curtains	typewriter	buttons on electronics	telegraph coal	glasses	horse and cart	compass
diary	fax	polaroid camera	messenger pigeon cross bow	sundial	washing board	walkman
carbon paper	sailing ship	fountain pen	needle

3. Three people are talking about their experience with computers. Read what they say and put the collocations from the box below in the correct place. You may need to change the form of the collocations.

start the computer	new messages	save the document
copy text	online shopping	lose all my work
send an email	check my email	create a new document go online	visit websites	do a research

When I (1) _____ yesterday, the first thing I did was (2) _____. Three days ago I (3) _____ to Asel, inviting her to my birthday party, and I hoped to see her reply. There were eleven (4) _____ in my inbox, but nothing from Asel.

b) Read or listen. Use the text to check your answers to exercises 1b and 2a.

Chocolate chip cookies

It's hard to imagine a world without chocolate chip cookies, but the dessert wasn't actually invented until 1930. On the day they were created, Ruth Graves Wakefield was preparing some chocolate cookies for her guests when she realized that she was out of baker's chocolate. Thinking on her feet, Wakefield decided to chop up a block of Nestle semi-sweet chocolate, assuming that it would melt and spread evenly throughout the batter. Instead, what came out of the oven was chocolate chip cookies, a popular modern dessert.

Potato chips

One of the most popular snack foods, the potato chip, was invented in 1953 by George Crum, a chef at a restaurant in Saratoga Lake, New York, when one of his customers complained that their French-fried potatoes were not well cooked. As legend has it, potatoes were thinly sliced and fried until they were brown. The dish was loved by the customers and became the first-ever chips.

Ice-cream cones

Today, ice cream lovers have a choice between enjoying their treat in a cup or a cone, but that wasn't always the case. In 1904, Ernest A. Hamwi, the waffle vendor, thought that his waffles could be shaped into cones as vessels for the frozen ice-cream. In this way, he helped an ice cream vendor who ran out of dishes to serve his ice cream in.

Botox

In the 1980s, a new treatment for crossed eyes was being tested out in San Francisco. The ophthalmologist (eye doctor) noticed that his treatment had miraculous face-lifting side effects. Botox was invented as a result of the experiment.

Tea bags

The invention of the modern tea bag is credited to tea merchant Thomas Sullivan. In 1908, Sullivan began shipping samples of his tea out in small silk bags.Though his intention wasn't for people to use these as tea bags, customers did so anyway. The invention has been loved for its convenience.

Play-Doh

A popular toy among children all over the world, Play-Doh, was ironically created to be a cleaning product. The paste was first marketed in 1955 as a treatment for filthy wallpaper, but later it was used by schoolchildren to create arts and crafts projects.

3. Read or listen to the text again. Mark the statements as true or false and correct the false statements.

1. T/F Botox was initially invented for cleaning the walls.
2. T/F Play-Doh was used by children for science projects at school.
3. T/F Ice-cream cones were invented by a cook.
4. T/F The first tea bags were made of silk.
5. T/F Botox was invented by a doctor.
6. T/F Chocolate chip cookies were invented because the cook ran out of an ingredient.
7. T/F Potato chips were invented due to a complaint.
8. T/F All the inventions mentioned in the text are popular nowadays.
9. T/F Chocolate chip cookies is the earliest invention.
10. T/F Tea bags were invented as a result of side effects.

4. a) Look at the words below. Using these words, predict how popsicles were invented.

11-year-old boy cold night stick sugary soda powder 18 years later San Francisco 2 million amusement park

b) Read or listen to the text. Compare the text to your answers.

One day in 1905, a drink was left outside by an eleven-year old boy named Frank Epperson. The drink was made of water and sugary soda powder and had a mixing stick in it. It was very cold that night and the drink froze. When the frozen drink was taken out of the cup, it stayed on the stick. That's how the first popsicle was created. Of course, popsicles were not sold in shops immediately. After all, their inventor was only a boy! But eighteen years later, Frank Epperson opened an ice pop factory. The first treats were sold in 1923 at Neptune Beach, a nearby amusement park. Today, two million of his sweet creations are eaten worldwide every year.

c) Prepare 3–5 questions about the text. Ask your partner and answer his/her questions.

5. Work in groups of three. Discuss which stories impressed you the most. Explain why.

Lessons 3–5

1. Work in pairs and answer the questions.

1. Have you ever had a problem with your computer?
2. What was the problem?
3. How did you solve the problem?
4. Who helped you to solve the problem?
5. Have you ever talked to a helpdesk technician?
6. Did he/she help you?

2. a) Look at the list of problems. What should be done to solve each problem?

1) The attachment sent by a friend of yours cannot be opened.
2) The password has been entered, but the system won't let you in.
3) Some new software has just been installed, and nothing seems to work properly.
4) A terrible smell is being given off by your computer, and it's hot to touch.

b) Read the helpdesk technician's suggestions. Match each problem from exercise 2a to the appropriate solution. Two solutions are extra.

A. The 'Caps Lock' key should not be pressed down. It's possible that the password has expired.
B. The text of the attachment should be copied into the email itself.
C. The file should be saved on the hard drive and opened from there.
D. The computer should be restarted.
E. Some software should be installed. It will help the documents to be printed out.
F. The computer must be shut down and unplugged immediately.

3. a) Complete the sentences and answer the questions below.

The computer _____ _____ restarted.
The password has _____ entered.
The attachment _____ be _____.
The terrible smell is _____ given off by the computer.

1. Do we know who the doer of the action is?
2. Is it obvious who the doer of the action is?
3. Is it important who the doer of the action is?
4. What preposition is used to introduce the doer?
5. What is the form of passive voice?

Language focus
The passive voice is used when we want to emphasize the action (the verb) and the object of a sentence rather than subject (the doer). This means that the subject (the doer) is either less important than the action itself, or that we don't know who or what the subject (the doer) is.
Present simple	The house is(n't) painted every summer.
Present continuous	The house is(n't) being painted at the moment.
Present perfect	The house has(n't) been painted.
Past simple	The house was(n't) painted last year.
Past continuous	The house was(n't) being painted from 2018 to 2019.
Past perfect	The house that had(n't) been painted was sold last Monday.
Future simple	The house will (won't) be painted soon.
Be going to	The house is(n't) going to be painted next months.
Modals	The house should(n't) be painted.

b) Look at the texts in Lesson 2 and find more examples of passive voice.

4. Rewrite the sentences about unusual inventions using the passive voice.

1		Dominic Wilcox created a unique stylus for touchscreen devices.
2		Fan blows on your food while you eat.

3		One company has created the FLIZ bicycle for people who love bicycles but hate all the parts that make a bicycle go.
4		Girls can use these shoes for learning to walk on high-heels.
5		Your child can wash your floor without your help.

5. Correct the mistakes in the sentences.

1. A man who created a washing machine for cats and dogs has nominated for the Noble prize.
2. All such devices are created people who are crazy.
3. Baby mop sold very successfully last year.
4. It is counted scientists that around 100 inventions made each day.
5. Some of these inventions been bought by big companies.

6. a) There are lots of ways to use your old toothbrush for other purposes. Choose the correct verb form in each sentence to complete the text.

1. Old toothbrushes can use / be using / be used in the kitchen for cleaning around the kitchen sink, including the taps.
2. Your keyboard and monitors can cleaned / clean / be cleaned with an old toothbrush.
3. Your lips may make / be made / made softer by brushing them gently with an old toothbrush.
4. Silver objects will be cleaned / cleaned / cleaning perfectly using a toothbrush.
5. Old toothbrushes can also use / used / be used for cosmetic purposes: clumps on your eyelashes will removed / removing / be removed very easily.

6. A bracelet makes / can make / can be made out of an old toothbrush. It must heat / be heated / to be heated and bend / to bend / bent into a round shape.

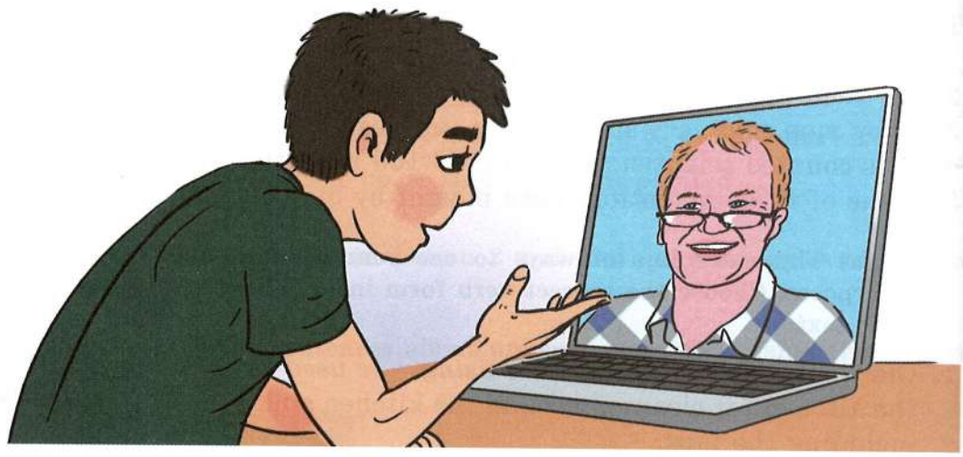
b) Add a few more ways to use your old toothbrush. Use the passive voice.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____

Lesson 6

1. a) Read or listen to the dialogue between Akyl and an IT expert. Do you think IT field is suitable for Akyl? Why or why not?



Akyl: Hello, Mr. Tomas, I have some questions about career paths in IT world. Do you think we could discuss them now?

Mr. Tomas: Sure, Akyl. Go ahead.

Akyl: What is the first thing I should take into consideration?

Mr. Tomas: There are several things to keep in mind when determining what sector of IT to go into. Keep an eye on job websites to see which jobs are most in-demand in Kyrgyzstan or globally. Second, be honest with yourself, keep in mind that for many jobs, there are several levels of positions available. You can't start out your career as a lead developer. You have to know your own limits.

Akyl: All right! I see. Is it easy to get a job? And what about the salary? Can I make much money in the IT sector?

Mr. Tomas: If you don't have previous experience, good contacts, or a good degree from a university, you will be more successful in getting a lower-level job. If you really need a job, keep your salary expectations a bit lower than the average salary. This will make your chances of getting a job much higher. Once you have experience then you will be in a good position to ask for more money. Of course, you shouldn't forget to show up on time, be dependable, be active in meetings, ask for harder tasks and more responsibility, and always do a little bit more than is asked of you. Sometimes the best way to get more money is to quit your job and work for another company. This may sound cruel or thankless, but that is how business works in the real world.

Akyl: Do I have to graduate from university to get a job?

Mr. Tomas: Despite the fact that I have been to several universities, graduate school, and have collected many IT certifications, I still learn much more about IT from my fellow engineers and articles.

Akyl: Which job do you think I am good for?

Mr. Tomas: I think you would be a great helpdesk technician!

Akyl: Helpdesk technician?

Mr. Tomas: Yes, these people work at computer support centers where people phone for help with their computer problems.

Akyl: Sounds interesting!

Mr. Tomas: Yes. They have to talk to the computer user to find the source of a problem and try to fix it over the phone. They offer computer assistance for all types of problems.

Akyl: How do I apply for a job?

Mr. Tomas: When you find a job advertisement that you are interested in applying for, you need to write a letter of application and submit your CV or resume.

Akyl: What is a letter of application?

Mr. Tomas: A letter of application, or a cover letter, is a document sent with your CV to provide additional information about your skills and experience to an employer and explains why you are a qualified candidate for the job.

b) Read and listen again. Answer the questions.

1. What recommendations does Mr. Tomas give to Akyl that will help him to get a higher salary?
2. Which job is good for Akyl according to Mr. Tomas?
3. Which two documents should you submit if you want to apply for a job?
4. Is a university degree enough to get a good job in the IT field?
5. What do helpdesk technicians usually do?

c) In pairs, discuss the following questions.

1. Do you think Akyl is interested in becoming a helpdesk technician?
2. Are you interested in getting a job in the IT field? Why or why not?
3. What are the essential and desirable requirements for jobs in technology?

2. Look at the prompts in the workbook and write a letter of application.

Now look at WB: Unit 5 Lesson 6 Writing

UNIT 6: SAVE THE PLANET

In this unit you will:

- learn words to talk about pollution;
- do a survey and find out how 'green' you are;
- use conjunctions and verbs to talk about causes and effects;
- read or listen to a text about ecology in Bishkek;
- use modals of deduction to talk about different situations;
- learn about ecologists.

Lesson 1

1. a) Match the pictures with the words.

industrial production noise	oil spill	vehicles smoke moving and honking vehicles	factory fumes	littering deforestation	sewage water	flying airplanes chemical substances	industrial waste	smoking

b) In pairs, discuss the following questions:

1. What causes air pollution?
2. What causes water pollution?
3. What examples of noise pollution can you give?
4. What causes land pollution?

2. In pairs, ask and answer the questions. Find out how 'green' you and your partner are. Do you agree with the result? Are you going to do anything to change your behavior?

1. Do you sort out glass, paper, plastic bottles, and cans?
   a) ☐ Yes, always
   b) ☐ Sometimes
   c) ☐ Never

2. Do you use your own, reusable shopping bags?
   a) ☐ Yes, always
   b) ☐ Often
   c) ☐ Once in a while

3. Do you recycle light bulbs and used batteries?
   a) ☐ Yes, always
   b) ☐ Sometimes
   c) ☐ Never

4. Do you always dispose of garbage in a proper way and in proper places?
   a) ☐ Yes, always
   b) ☐ Most of the time
   c) ☐ Shame on me, but sometimes I don't

5. Do you bother picking up other people's litter?
   a) ☐ Yes, always
   b) ☐ Sometimes
   c) ☐ Never

6. Do you switch off the lights when you leave a room?
   a) ☐ Yes, always
   b) ☐ Sometimes
   c) ☐ Never

7. Do you switch off other electric appliances at night? (e.g. TV, computer, etc.)

a) ☐ Yes, always
b) ☐ Sometimes
c) ☐ Never

8. Do you put on warmer clothes when it's cold instead of putting on the heat?

a) ☐ Yes, always
b) ☐ Sometimes
c) ☐ Never, I prefer putting the heating on more

10. Do you close the tap while you brush your teeth?

a) ☐ Yes, always
b) ☐ Sometimes
c) ☐ Never, I never think about it

9. Do you take showers instead of baths?

a) ☐ Yes, always
b) ☐ Often
c) ☐ Never

11. Do you use public transport, bike, or walk when possible?

a) ☐ Yes, always
b) ☐ Sometimes
c) ☐ Never

Get 2 points for every (a) answer, 1 point for every (b) answer, and 0 points for every (c) answer.

From 18 to 22

Congratulations, you are making a really good effort to help to save our planet. Keep up the good work!

From 12 to 17

Well, you should do better. The environment is not really your priority, but you can improve, can't you?

Below 11

Oh no! You should definitely do a lot more to leave an acceptable environment to your children and grandchildren.

Lesson 2

1. a) It is well-known that the winter of 2019-2020 was an especially bad time for Bishkek due to severe air pollution. What are the causes of the situation? Read or listen to the text.

Bishkek used to be known as a charming, tree-lined city having the cleanest air. The capital of Kyrgyzstan has a serious problem with air pollution, and now Bishkek might be called one of the most polluted cities in the world.

One of the main reasons for the smog that hangs heavy over Bishkek is poor urban planning. Over the past few years, large numbers of high-rise buildings have gone up with little supervision, preventing the refreshing air that used to descend from mountains in the south from circulating freely.

The dirty air also comes from coal-heated household stoves. The State Agency for Environmental Protection and Forests estimates that of the 240,000 tons of harmful emissions pumped into Bishkek's air each year comes from household stoves. Air pollution levels rise after the start of the heating season in Bishkek.

Urban traffic is another cause of air pollution. The car density in Bishkek is one of the highest in the world: about 640 cars per 1,000 inhabitants (Germany has a car density of 550 per 1,000 inhabitants), diesel-driven minibuses (marshrutkas) replace a missing public transport system, and the population suffers from increasing respiratory and cardiovascular diseases.

Now, it is time to work out concrete projects for air improvement in Bishkek, with support from various local leaders from civil society, politicians, and scientists to develop and implement solutions, using the international exchange of expertise and experience.

b) Read or listen to the text again. How many different causes of air pollution in Bishkek were mentioned? What are they? Can you think of some other causes?

2. a) What could be done to solve the problem? Read the solutions below and match them to the problems. Which are the most effective, short-term, long-term, practical, or cost-effective solutions?

- to ban tall buildings in critical ventilation areas;
- to impose a moratorium on construction in the city center;
- to restrict constructing higher than seven story buildings in the centre of the city;
- to speed up linking more Bishkek residential areas to the gas grid, thereby obviating the need for burning dirty coal;
- to downsize the city's fleet of unregulated minibuses;
- to introduce new climate-friendly gas-run buses;
- to give people information about how to protect their health;
- to introduce an attractive and comprehensive local public transport system as well as bicycle infrastructure;
- to provide the population with information and environmental education;
- to introduce a separate bus lane;
- to double the price of petrol;
- to promote bus and trolleybus traffic;
- to increase fines for air pollution.

b) What would you recommend to improve the situation in Bishkek? Present your ideas to the class. Speak for at least 2 minutes.

3. In pairs, discuss the following questions.

1. Are there litter laws where you live? If so, what is the penalty for littering?
2. Do you think cars should be banned from city centers?
3. Do you think tourists will be interested in visiting a polluted country?
4. What can you do to help prevent pollution?
5. Which is more important, increasing people's standard of living, or protecting the environment?
6. Who do you think is more responsible for pollution, individual people, or the government?
7. Do you know about any anti-pollution programs in your community?

Lesson 3

1. a) In pairs, look at the examples below and complete the gaps in the table.

The relationship between two situations can be shown in a variety of ways:

CAUSE: oil spills → EFFECT: water pollution

Oil spills cause water pollution.
Oil spills lead to water pollution.
Oil spills result in water pollution.
Oil spills produce water pollution.

EFFECT: water pollution ← CAUSE: oil spills

Water pollution is caused by oil spills.
Water pollution is produced by oil spills.
Water pollution results from oil spills.

It is also possible to use conjunctions that demonstrate cause and effect.

because / since / so + subject + verb	so / therefore + subject + verb consequently / which is why because of / owing to / due to + noun

Language focus

Because of / owing to / due to oil spills, the water pollution was severe.
Oil spilled in the ocean, therefore / which is why / consequently / so the water got polluted.

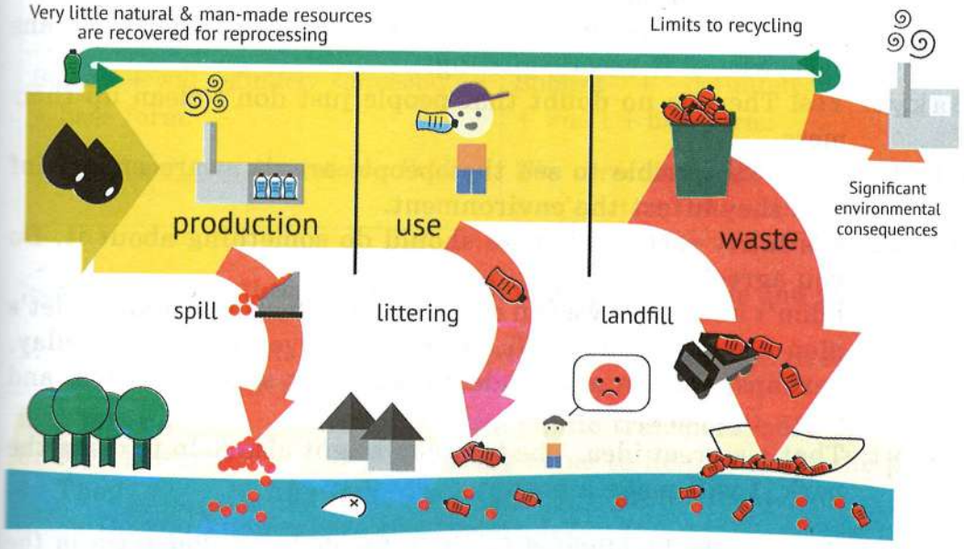
b) Look at Unit 6 Lessons 1 and 2 and make 10 more sentences using the verbs and conjunctions from the examples above. Write them down in your notebook.

2. Use conjunctions from the table above to complete the following paragraph.

Over the last few decades, it is an irrefutable point that the environment is exposed to many dangers. These dangers have progressed (1) _____ advanced processes, which (2) _____ myriad issues. To begin with, there are many issues in the environment that (3) _____ inevitable consequences such as pollution. First and foremost, the factories that (4) _____ black smoke. In addition, it is mainly (5) _____ human activities that the planet has reached unsustainable levels, (6) _____ it is now our duty and responsibility to lower the harm that has been already done to nature. Every individual could play a significant role in combatting this problem.

3. Study the flowchart and complete the paragraph that describes it.



If a country is suffering from ecological problems, it might be due to

_____

Lessons 4–5

1. In pairs, discuss what you see in the picture. Read or listen to the dialogue. Were you right?

Akyl: Yesterday evening I went to the park. I wanted to sit and relax, but it was too dirty.

Bakyt: What do you mean?

Akyl: There were plastic bags, plastic water bottles, and cans everywhere! It was disgusting!

Bakyt: Yes! There is no doubt that people just don't clean up their mess.

Akyl: Yes, it's terrible to see that people aren't aware enough of how they affect the environment.

Bakyt: It's fairly certain that we should do something about it. Do you agree?

Akyl: I don't know, but we can certainly do something. I know, let's plan a clean-up day. We might not have classes on Friday, perhaps, we can ask students from our school to come and clean the park.

Bakyt: That's a great idea. The teachers might also help to clean the park. I will make a poster.

2. a) Look at the highlighted words in the dialogue. Put them in the correct place in the table.

100% sure it will happen	50% sure it will happen	100% sure it won't happen

b) Add these expressions to the table.

definitely won't	will definitely	may be	I'm certain that...
probably won't	I'm not sure if...	can't	I doubt that... will probably	It's possible that...	must	won't

Language focus
Subject + must/may/might/will/could + base form: We may invite boys and girls from our school. They might help to clean the park. Akyl must live near. He always walks to school. will is often contracted to 'll: Bakyt'll make a poster.	Subject + may/might/will/can + + not + base form: We might not have classes on Friday. She can't know English well. She has failed the test. will not is often written as won't: I won't come again to this dirty park.
Subject + will definitely / probably + + base form: The will definitely be good on Friday.	Subject + definitely/probably + + won't + base form: The director of the school probably won't attend the clean-up day.

3. Complete these sentences with appropriate words and phrases.

1. I don't know, but the largest environmental problem in Kyrgyzstan _____ be air pollution.
2. I think I _____ definitely use public transport more often.
3. My classmates _____ probably come to help to clean the park.
4. They _____ like fish. They _____ prefer meat.
5. — Do you know where the camera is?
   — I'm not sure. It _____ be in one of the desk drawers or it _____ be in the cupboard.
6. I definitely _____ leave plastic bottles in the mountains anymore.
7. I hear sounds from the room. There _____ be someone in there.

8. I am not sure, but the mayor _____ ban tall buildings in th city centers.
9. There _____ be an oil spill in Lake Issyk-Kul.
10. The rooms at that hotel are really cheap. The price _____ include breakfast.

4. Decide if you think the following will happen in the next 5 years, could happen, or won't happen. Write sentences using th words and phrases from the table.

1. Most cars will be electric. — I am certain that most cars will b electric.
2. Alternative energy will be more important than coal and oil.
3. You will recycle all your bags, cans, and paper.
4. Almost all the rainforests will disappear.
5. People will continue to sunbathe.
6. The climate will get worse.
7. The next generation will care more about the environment tha the present one.
8. In elections, environmental issues will become more importan than any other issue.
9. Cars will be banned from cities.
10. People will destroy the Earth.

Lesson 6

1. Akyl is considering a career in the field of environmentalism He is interviewing an ecologist. Look at the questions he asks an match them to the answers.

1. What's your favorite part of the job?
2. First, how did you get into this field?
3. What are the essential qualities for a person working in this field
4. What's your least favorite part of the job?
5. Do all ecologists need specific education?
6. What do you think people who are thinking about getting into thi field should know about the job beforehand?

— Good morning, sir. My name is Akyl, I like being outdoors, hiking and I am fascinated by wildlife. I also want to protect places tha I love, so I am considering a career as an ecologist. I would lik to learn more about people who study and protect rare species and ecosystems. Do you think you could answer my questions?

— Of course, Akyl. What would you like to know?

— A._____

— I grew up in Talas and spent a lot of my time in the city, but I would often retreat to the mountains for walks and spent a lot of time in Besh-Tash nature park. When I was about 10 years old, my father took me to the park for the first time and it was one of the most formative weeks of my life. It was the first time I saw Marko Polo argari sheep, eagles, balabans, and kumais.We went fishing and had osman, marinka, and rainbow trout for dinner. I know these may seem like simple experiences but, as an urbanite, all of these things were new and fascinating to me. Because of that trip, I have always associated the outdoors with adventure and wonder. Since then, I knew that I wanted to do something that allowed me to explore wild species. I studied biology at university.

— B._____

— To some degree, yes. Most of my colleagues graduated from universities with a degree in biology, ecology, or environmental studies.

— C._____

— I strongly believe that ecologists must be curious, self-motivated, adaptable, creative, and, perhaps most surprisingly, able to work well with others. Ecology is an increasingly collaborative field. If you're looking to retreat to the woods and enjoy peace and quiet, ecology is not really the field for you.

— D._____

— Every ecosystem is like a never-ending puzzle. I love answering the questions and gaining some insight into how and why ecosystems function the way that they do. I also love that every ecologist focuses on something slightly different; I personally enjoy helping my country and making it famous for success in snow leopard conservation.

— E._____

— Dealing with illegal hunting and sometimes with local communities.

— F._____

— In ecology, the work is often its own reward and the benefits are untraditional. You won't make a fortune, and, at best, you'll be famous to a small group of people who are interested in your work. However, you'll travel to incredible places, see indescribably beautiful things, and always have an interesting response when someone asks what you do.

— Thank you very much! I have learned a lot about your job.

2. a) Read the interview again and answer the questions.

1. What personal qualities should a good ecologist have?
2. Is it necessary to have formal training to become an ecologist?
3. What is the main focus of his job?
4. How did his passion for nature awaken?

b) In pairs, discuss these questions.

1. Why is it important for ecologists to be cooperative?
2. The expert mentioned that it is important to be curious, self-motivated, adaptable, creative, and cooperative to be a team worker. Can you think about other qualities that might be important?
3. What do you think is the best and the worst part of the job?
4. Why do you think he mentioned local communities as one of the main challenges of his job?
5. Do you think it is a good career path for Akyl?
6. Would you like to become an ecologist? Why or why not?

STOP AND CHECK 3

1. Look at the sentences below. Put the verbs in brackets into either active or passive voice.

Example: I wouldn't have complained if the food _____ (not be overcook).

I wouldn't have complained if the food wasn't overcooked.

1. His car looks like it _____ never _____ (wash) .
2. If I were you, I _____ (contact) a class teacher.
3. _____ you _____ (inform) yet about the new assignment?
4. Unfortunately, the budget for the next year _____ (not approve) yet.
5. A smile _____ (appear) on her face.
6. We _____ (wait) for 30 minutes. Where is the minibus?
7. The school debate contest _____ (happen) right now. Let's go.
8. I'll be happy if our career plan _____ (succeed).

9. I strongly believe that smoking should _____ (prohibit) in restaurants.
10. The airplane, which _____ (operate) by Air Kyrgyzstan, _____ (fly) by an experienced pilot.

2. a) Read or listen to the text and answer the questions.

1. Who is Wayne Fromm?
2. What did he invent?
3. Have you ever used his invention?
4. Is it a useful intention? Why or why not?

Wayne Fromm has been fascinated with photography since he was a kid. He used to develop his own prints and experimented with Polaroids and early video cameras.

In 2002, he took his daughter on holiday to Italy. He wanted photos of them together, but if they took photos themselves, they always ended up with a head off-centre. In the end, they'd wait for a passerby who looked savvy enough to use Wayne's digital camera and were able to understand what they wanted without a common language. Then they had to deal with people walking in front of them while the photo was being taken. Wayne just thought: "There has to be an easier way."

It took about 100 prototypes to get it right. Every pin, spring, lever, and gear had to be up to the job. He wanted each one to last 20 years and be able to withstand use under the sea or in the heat of the Sahara.

b) Read the second part of the text and answer the questions.

1. Were your guesses right?
2. Why did Wayne Fromm invent it?
3. Why do you think they became so popular?
4. Why was the selfie stick first used by skiers, paragliders, and divers?
5. What problems has the inventor encountered since his invention has taken off?

c) Read the text again. Put the verbs in brackets into the correct, active or passive form.

It wasn't the first time someone (1) _____ (come up) with the idea of sticking a camera on the end of a stick. Originally, Wayne (2) _____ (call) it The Quik Pod Extendable Monopod and only (3) _____ (start) using the term "selfie stick" when it became part of the lexicon. First, it (4) _____ (use) in the extreme sport community — it was really popular with skiers, paragliders, and divers.

Since its launch, the sales (5) _____ (grow) every year. However, one of the problems he (6) _____ (encounter) is cheap, fake selfie sticks.

Money was never his main motivation. He is far more interested in creating a world where families (7) _____ (have) good pictures in which everyone is present. In earlier decades, family pictures (8) _____ (take) by one of the parents who was often all but invisible in their photo albums. Now, for the first time, everyone can always be present.

3. a) Read the text about technology and health. Find the best places for the sentences below the text.

Technology and Health

Many people believe that mobiles and other technology are harmful to their health, due to the exposure to radiation. Scientists at the very least think mobile phones should be used as little as possible. A. _____ Mobile phones are particularly bad for children. Phone companies will tell you that they are safe, but remember they are selling a product, so they are hardly going to put you off buying their product by telling you it is unsafe. B. _____

Electrical gadgets in the bedroom can also cause problems. It is best to have no electronic items in your house. C. _____.

Cordless phones emit a high amount of radiation, because they have to be on all the time so the phone can be charged. If you didn't do this, the phone wouldn't work. D. _____ Particularly, keep your use of mobile phones to a minimum and use a landline instead, because mobile phones can cause cancerous brain tumours if they are used for a long period of time over a period of years. E. _____.

1. Where there is a lot of money involved there tends to be corruption.
2. But if you can't do without them, at least make sure you don't have a computer, cordless phone, or mobile phone in your bedroom, or at least make sure that they are turned off.
3. So, keep your technology use to a limited amount of time each day.
4. In fact, research claims mobile phones could kill more people than smoking.

5. Always remember that your health is very important, as you might find you are unable to return to good health once you have lost it.

b) Read or listen again. Are the following statements true or false? Correct the false ones.

1. The author of the text is against the use of technology.
2. We should use mobile phones as much as possible.
3. Scientists think mobile phones shouldn't be used by children.
4. Scientists' and phone companies' opinion on mobile security diverge.
5. Smoking is more dangerous than mobile phones.
6. Electrical appliances in the bedroom are advisable.

c) Read or listen and answer the following questions about the text.

1. What's the author's position about the use of technology?
2. Why do phone companies say mobile phone use is safe?
3. Why does the author advise us not to have wireless gadgets turned on in our bedrooms?
4. Which piece of advice does the author give at the end of the text?

d) Match the synonyms.

particularly	dangerous
harmful	secure wireless	especially safe	exhaustion
emit	without wires

4. There is one mistake in each sentence. Find and correct it.

Example: I might ~~to~~ become an ecologist in future.

1. I might to become an ecologist in future.
2. We probably won't stay home at the weekend.
3. I'm sure it might rain today.
4. I definitely will go to the beach in the summer.
5. I doubt that they will go on vacation this year. They have already booked the plane tickets.
6. That man over there can be Peter, because he never wears hats.
7. Sorry, I have to work all day tomorrow. I might come to see you.
8. It's possible that this is their house. Their door is red, but this one is green.

UNIT 7: LIFE IS SHORT, ART LASTS FOREVER

In this unit you will:

- learn words, phrases, and idioms about art;
- read about famous painters and pictures;
- learn and use modals of deduction to speculate about the past and the present;
- learn what it is like to be a sculptor.

Lesson 1

1. In pairs, discuss the following questions.

1. What does the phrase life is short, but art lasts forever mean?
2. Have you ever seen an opera? Have you ever been to the symphony? If so, tell about your experience.
3. Tell about the last time you visited a museum. What did you see? Who did you go with?
4. How much does our country's government support funding for the arts? Do you think the arts should be funded?
5. Do you or your family own any original artwork? How did you or your family get it?
6. What is traditional art from our country like? How much do you know about it?
7. Do you consider movie-making an art form? Why or why not?
8. What's a famous building in our country? Why is it famous?
9. Who is your favorite artist/sculptor/composer/writer/poet? Describe their work.
10. Do you own any books about art? How often do you look at them?

2. Look at the words in the box and put them in the appropriate boxes. Look up the meaning of the words you don't know in a dictionary.

Visual art	Written art	Performing art	Painting	Places and events ceramics, ...

3. a) Look at the idioms about art below and match them with their definitions.

1. be no oil painting	a) something with no content such that it can be easily filled with completely new things
2. con artist	b) to do something well or efficiently, typically because of one's experience at it
3. fine art	c) to be unattractive
4. poetry in motion	d) a short description or small picture
5. blank canvas	e) something that is graceful and beautiful to observe
6. thumbnail sketch	f) a person who makes a living by deceiving people
7. have (something) down to a fine art	g) something requiring highly developed techniques and skills, classical, traditional, high-class art
8. paint (something) with a broad brush	h) to describe something in general terms, without mentioning specific details and without paying attention to individual variations

b) Complete the sentences with the appropriate idioms fro exercise 3a.

1. She is very intelligent, but she's _____.
2. Children are _____. It's easy to make them believ whatever you want.
3. Many _____ target the elderly by trying to gain the confidence.
4. They are good at the _____ of web development.
5. I'm a working mom of three, so I've got lunch making _____ — I put out all the pieces of bread, ad jelly to each one, and then do the same with peanut butter.
6. The girl was like _____ when she was dancing.
7. When asked about his policy to reform the educational system i the Kyrgyz Republic, the president _____.
8. The accountant gave a _____ of the financial situatio of the company.
9. — I think Akyl spends too much time working on his schoo project. I think he should spend some time having fun.
10. — Yes, but _____, you know. Having fun wouldn't wi him university enrollment.

1. Look at the picture below and answer the questions.

1. What can you see?
2. Have you ever seen this picture before?
3. When do you think it was painted?
4. What does it depict?
5. What would you call it?
6. Do you like it? Why or why not?

a) Read the text and code it (place a question mark (?) next to a statement you don't understand or an exclamation mark (!) next to something that surprised you).

Pieter Bruegel (1525–1569) is widely regarded as the 16th century's greatest Netherlandish painter. He is known for his landscapes and peasant scenes. Even in the 16th century, Habsburg collectors had recognised the exceptional quality and originality of Bruegel's imagery and bought his works. Bruegel's popularity is also a result of the stunning compositions he creates, which are often moralising and always teeming with characters, inviting the viewer to reflect on the multi-layered complexity of the image's contents. Paintings such as Proverbs, Children's Games, and The Wedding Dance are very recognisable and adored all over the world.

Hanging at the Gemaldegalerie art museum in Berlin, Germany, Netherlandish Proverbs is an unusual painting. Measuring 64 inches by 46 inches, this 16th century oil-on-oak-panel painting is populated by a swarm of miniature men, women, children, and animals performing a range of extraordinary and bizarre acts. However, most people who glance at Netherlandish Proverbs might see nothing more than a painting illustrating a bustling street scene in the Netherlands. Many of the actions performed by the subjects in the painting appear odd, but they all have meaning.

The painting was originally called The Blue Cloak or The Folly of the World, indicating that Bruegel must have intended to not just illustrate proverbs, but rather to illustrate the universal stupidity of man. This painting contains a literal illustration of idioms and aphorisms of 16th century Flemish life. The painting depicts 112 identifiable Dutch proverbs and sayings that have been displayed in literal illustration, which are still relevant and in use today. Experts must have been working really hard on identifying the proverbs, but some of them have been lost to history. Some of these include "to be a pillar biter," "to be armed to the teeth," "toss feathers into the wind," "to keep one's eye on the sail," along with many others. Bruegel might have revealed the absurdity of humans, as shown through his painting.

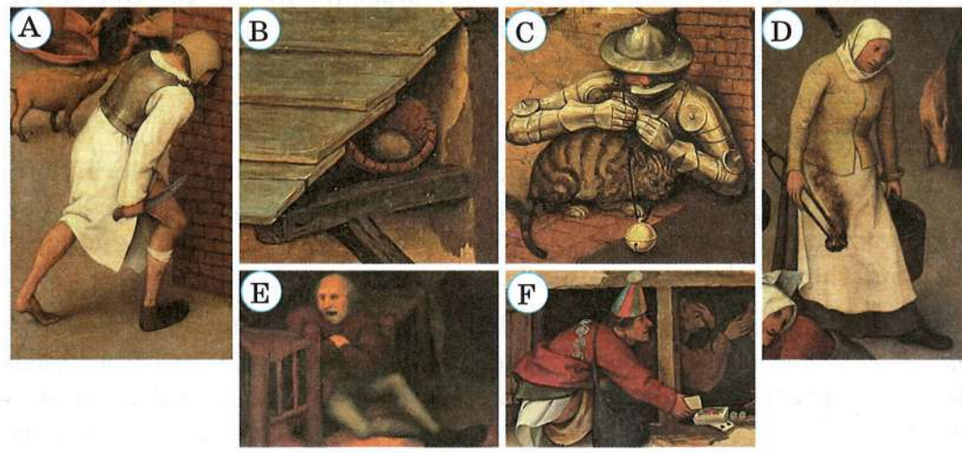
b) Talk to your partners and explain your coding.

c) Read the text again and answer the questions.

1. Was the painter successful in his lifetime? Why do you think so?
2. What kind of pictures did Bruegel paint?
3. Is it a large painting?
4. What does the painting depict?
5. How many proverbs is it possible to identify in the painting?
6. How do you understand the proverbs "to be a pillar biter," "to be armed to the teeth," "toss feathers into the wind," and "to keep one's eye on the sail"? Can you see these proverbs in the painting?

Lessons 3–5

1. a) Look at the fragments of the painting from Lesson 2. Can you find these fragments of the painting?



b) Look at the list of the idioms below. Match them with the fragments of the painting and their meanings. Talk to your partner and compare your ideas. Use modals of deduction must, can't, may, might, could.

Example: 'To bell the cat' can't mean 'to have something in reserve', it might mean 'to try to achieve the impossible' and I think it must be featured in fragment C.

1. Never believe someone who carries fire in one hand and water in the other
2. Leave at least one egg in the nest.
3. to bell the cat
4. to bang one's head against a brick wall
5. to sit between two stools in the ashes
6. fools get the best cards

a) to carry out a dangerous or impractical plan
b) to try to achieve the impossible
c) to be indecisive
d) always have something in reserve
e) to be two-faced and to stir up trouble
f) luck can overcome intelligence

2. Look at the sentences from the text in Lesson 2 and choose the correct option to complete the statements below.

The painting was originally called The Blue Cloak or The Folly of the World indicating that Bruegel must have intended not just to illustrate proverbs, but rather to illustrate the universal stupidity of man.

Bruegel might have revealed the absurdity of humans, as shown through his painting.

Experts must have been working really hard on identifying the proverbs, but some of them have been lost to history.

We use must + have + V3 when we are (1) certain/uncertain about situations in the (2) past/present/future.

We use might + have + V3 when we are (3) certain/uncertain about situations in the (4) past/present/future.

We use must/might/could/may + have + been + Ving when we talk about an action that could have happened (5) continuously/briefly over a period of time in the past.

Language focus

We use must and can't / couldn't + have + past participle when we are certain about situations in the past. Must and can't are opposites:

I can't find my keys. I must have left my keys at home.

We use may/might/could + have + past participle to talk about possibilities in the past time (may have = possible (50%), could / might have = less certain (33%)):

I am not sure what sort of bird it was that I saw yesterday, but it may / might / could have been an eagle.

We use must/can/could/might/may + have + been + Ving when we are talking about certain or uncertain continuous actions in the past:

This man must have been living on the same street all his life. He knows everyone there.

3. Complete the text about Salvador Dali with must have, might / could / may have, or can't have and the correct form of one of the verbs from the table.

spend	study	paint	assimilate	begin	make	befriend	be ~~be~~

Salvador Dalí (1) must have been the son of Salvador Dalí Cusí, a notary, and Felipa Doménech Ferrés. His family lived in Catalonia, Spain, but as the family owned a nice summer cottage, they (2) ____ summers in the seaside of Cadaqués, where Dalí (3) _____ the coastal landscape and his family. It is known that in Cadaqués, he also (4) _____ painting with Ramyn Pichot, a family friend.

Salvador Dalí (5) _____ his formal education at a public school in Catalonia, Spain, but, he (6) _____ a good student and his father had to switch him to a private school where instruction was in French. Later, he studied at the San Fernando Academy of Art in Madrid, where he (7) _____ Federico García Lorca and Luis Buñuel as they were also studying there.

As an art student in Madrid and Barcelona, Dalí (8) _____ a vast number of artistic styles and displayed unusual technical facility as a painter. It was not until the late 1920s, however, that Dalí began to induce hallucinatory states in himself by a process he described as "paranoiac critical."

Once Dalí hit on that method, his painting style matured with extraordinary rapidity, and from 1929 to 1937 he produced the paintings that (9) _____ him the world's best-known Surrealist artist.

4. Look at the following examples. Think of two or three more similar situations and share them with your partner. Your partner will guess what might have happened before. Once you're finished, switch roles.

Example:

1) Student 1: I knocked at my friend's door at 6:30 this morning. He opened the door with a cup in his hands.
Student 2: He might have been having breakfast.

2) Student 2: My sister came out of her room with the TV remote control in her hand and I could hear loud music in the background.
Student1: She must not have been studying for the big grammar test she has tomorrow.

3) Student 1: When I woke up in the morning, I saw my father with a razor in his hands, wearing half a beard and half a mustache.
Student 2: He...

Language focus

We use modals of possibility or probability + subject +be + Ving to make a guess or draw a logical conclusion about an activity in progress at the present time or during the time of speaking.

— What's all that noise?
— The neighbour's son must be listening to music.

Must conveys a strong feeling of certainty. Could, may, and might show that a speaker is 50% or less certain that an action is in progress. Couldn't and can't show that the speaker believes strongly that a situation is not taking place.

May not and might not convey the idea that a speaker is 50% or less certain that an action is not possible or probable. They are not normally used in their contracted forms.

5. Look at the following situations. Write sentences in your notebook using must have, might/could/may have, or can't have in response to each of the following situations. Compare your answers with your partner's.

1. Your favorite classmate isn't in class today. You are 95 percent sure you know the reason.
2. What time is it now? Tell your partners what your family/friends are perhaps doing right now.You are less than 50 percent certain.
3. Describe what you think someone you know is not doing right now. You are 99 percent sure.
4. Your neighbours had a car accident last week. Why do you think it happened? You are 95 percent sure / You are less than 50 percent certain.
5. Your teacher was 45 minutes late for class yesterday. Why? You are 95 percent certain / you are less than 50 percent sure.

Lesson 6

1. Talk to your partner and answer the following questions.

1. Have you ever met a sculptor or seen a sculptor at work?
2. Who can become a sculptor?
3. What do sculptors do on a normal day?
4. Do you need to get formal education to become a sculptor?
5. Is it a well-paid job?

2. a) Copy the chart below into your notebook and complete the 'know' column.

I know ...	I want to know ...	I learned ...

b) What questions about the job do you have? Complete the 'want to know' column of the chart with your questions.

c) Read the interview with a famous sculptor below. Compare the text to your ideas in the 'I know' column, find the answers to the questions in the 'I want to know' column, and fill out the 'I learned' column.

— When did you first know you would be an artist? When did you first start sculpting?

— I always knew I would be an artist. I was an artist before I was born. My earliest memory of myself is standing near my crib drawing on wallpaper with permanent markers. As soon as I was tall enough to reach the table, I carved into it with a kitchen knife. I grew up in a pre-computer, pre-smartphone, and pre-television environment; I played in mud, hung off tree limbs, made things out of whatever was on hand, and helped my dad to fix anything that needed repair. I didn't really think it necessary to decide on the kind of artist I would be, but when my parents gave me my first set of plasticine (modeling clay) for my 7th birthday, I knew I was a sculptor.

— What do sculptors do?

— A sculptor shapes clay, stone, marble, wood, and other materials (even ice and potatoes) into two- or three-dimensional art. To be a sculptor is to be a craftsman. I do everything myself, from start to finish: I mix my own clay, make metal armatures to support my clay sculptures, mold my finished pieces in flexible rubber with rigid plaster backing and cast waxes into the molds, and coat my waxes in heat-resistant ceramic. I pour bronze at 1177 °C into ceramic shells. I break ceramic off using a hammer. I then cut, grind, refine, weld, and finish raw metal. I use chemicals and heat to change the color of raw bronze to one that suits a particular piece, which is a process called patination. I also fashion wood or marble bases for my finished sculptures. I drill, tap, and countersink in order for the sculpture to be mounted properly. I build my own pedestals — a lengthy, physical, and sweaty process that is also extremely satisfying because the result it yields is so personal.

— How would you describe your style of work?

— I am a contemporary sculptor reflecting on contemporary themes. I sculpt figures and animals in terra cotta and bronze. My sculptures communicate my ideas.

— Who or what inspires you artistically?

— I am a great admirer of nature. An artist's gift is two-fold: seeing the extraordinary in the ordinary and communicating that sense of wonder by way of art.

— Who are your clients?

— I create artwork to be used in a wide range of places, such as businesses, government buildings, homes, lawns, and outdoor parks, just to name a few.

— What is the hardest part of your job?
— Many sculptors work within tight deadlines, must also pay close attention to details, and work accurately, while always meeting the needs of the client.
— Do I have to study to become a sculptor?
— To become a sculptor, there is no specific educational requirement. I think I was born with an artistic talent, but I attended college to develop a skill set. At college, I had a chance to explore unfamiliar techniques, methods, and materials. I learned the history of sculpture through past and present artists. I developed sketching, molding, and casting techniques, and had the opportunity to participate in internships.
— And finally, sorry for the question, but I would like to know if it is a well-paid job.
— It's hard to say. When you first start working, you charge a nominal fee to earn a reputation, but after many years of professional experience you can command a much higher wage.

3. In pairs, answer the questions.

1. Do you think sculpting is a good career path for Akyl?
2. What personal qualities should sculptors have?
3. Would you like to become a sculptor? Why or why not?

Now look at WB: Unit 7 Lesson 6 Writing

UNIT 8: THE WORLD IS A BOOK AND THOSE WHO DO NOT TRAVEL READ ONLY ONE PAGE

In this unit you will:

- learn words and collocations about travelling;
- find out what foreigners think about Kyrgyzstan;
- learn how to report statements, orders, recommendations, and questions;
- review articles;
- learn about career advisors;
- talk about your plans for the future using the future perfect and future continuous tenses.

Lesson 1

1. In pairs, answer the following questions. Report the most interesting information to the class.

1. Do you like travelling? Where have you been? Have you ever been abroad?
2. Are you planning on going anywhere for your next vacation? (If so, where? Who with? How long will you stay there?)
3. What countries would you like to visit? Why? If you traveled to South America / Europe / Asia, what countries would you like to visit? Why?
4. Do / would you prefer to travel alone or in a group? Why?
5. Do / would you prefer to travel by train, bus, plane, car, or ship? Why?
6. Have you ever hitchhiked (stopped a car and travelled for free)? If so, how many times?
7. How do you spend your time when you are on holiday and the weather is bad?
8. What kind of souvenirs should people who come to Kyrgyzstan buy?
9. If you were going on a camping trip for a week, what 10 things would you bring? Explain why.
10. What are some countries that you would never visit? Why wouldn't you visit them?
11. What are some things that you always take with you on a trip?
12. What do you need before you can travel to another country?

13. What is the most interesting city to visit in your country?
14. Do you think tourism harms the earth?
15. Could you live in another country for the rest of your life? Why or why not?
16. What is the difference between trip, travel, and journey?

2. a) Look at the definitions of the words and complete the sentences with trip, travel, and journey.

Trip is the act of going to another place (often for a short period of time) and returning.

- We took a five-day trip to Sary-Chelek.
- You're back from vacation! How was your trip*?*
- My father went on business trips to Switzerland and Germany last month.

Use the verbs "take" and "go on" with trip.

Travel means going from one place to another, especially over a long distance, going or moving at a particular speed, in a particular direction, or a particular distance.

- I really like to travel*.*
- He travels frequently for work.
- My sister is currently traveling through South America.
- Travel in that region of the country is dangerous.
- World travel gives you a new perspective.
- I always use travel brochures to make travel arrangements for my boss.

Journey is one piece of travel (going from one place to another) — usually a long distance.

- The journey takes 3 hours by plane or 28 hours by bus.
- He made the 200-mile journey by bike.
- A journey of a thousand miles must begin with a single step.

We can also use journey in a more "metaphorical" way to talk about progress in life:

- He has overcome a lot of problems on his spiritual journey.
- My uncle is an alcoholic, but he's beginning the journey of recovery.

1. People in my town/city/village can get some _____ brochures and plan their holiday.
2. My father is always on a business _____.

3. Last spring, my class went to the mountains. Our teacher said, "It's a rather difficult overnight _____ to the mountains but it's well worth it."
4. My uncle loves travelling, but he prefers to arrange his holidays himself rather than use a _____ agent.
5. On Saturday, we went on a day _____ to an interesting old mosque.
6. Was it a tiring _____ from Bishkek to Sidney?
7. On summer weekends when I was in primary school, we often used to go on camping _____.
8. When I am a grown-up, I will never make my own _____ arrangements, my secretary will do it.
9. Before my relatives leave the house to head to the airport, I always say, "Safe _____! See you soon."

b) Look at the sentences above again. Tick sentences that are true about you and change the other sentences to make them true about you.

Example: People in my village cannot get any travel brochures to plan their holidays because there are no any travel agencies in my village. People use the internet to plan their holidays.

Lesson 2

1. Read or listen to the blog posts and answer the questions below.

According to the government, the tourism sector is developing dynamically in Kyrgyzstan. The number of tourists visiting the country is growing from year to year, and the share of tourism in the country's GDP is growing as well.

There are many blogs where tourists from all over the world share their travel experiences.

Rafa, Costa Rica

All of these experiences in Kyrgyzstan are a meaningful part of my life that I will store in my heart for the rest of my days. Going to Kyrgyzstan is definitely an advantageous decision.

David, England

As in any other Muslim nation, it was appropriate to take our shoes off before entering houses. Kyrgyz people prepared very large lunches for us. Then they served lots of tea to exchange our opinion on any topic. The fact that I spoke a bit of Russian definitely helped, but I was surprised by the amount of young Kyrgyz people who speak almost perfect English. English is a teenage craze there.

Tomas, Canada

Petty crime, such as theft, is not unheard of and corrupt police can sometimes make it challenging to travel around the country by car. They'll give a fine to locals and foreigners for any reason they can imagine. The best solution to avoid being pick-pocketed is to stay very alert and aware of your belongings at all times. You should leave all your important and valuable items at your hotel and walk around only with what is absolutely necessary. Moreover, whatever you do, do not hike alone in Kyrgyzstan. Hiking alone in Kyrgyzstan is not safe and should never be attempted regardless of whether you are an experienced hiker or not.

Amanda, USA

Are you interested in Kyrgyz nature? In Sary-Chelek area, we met Arslan, an eagle hunter. I held an eagle for about 3 minutes — she was quite heavy. As Arslan recommended, I didn't touch the eagle, only had her on my arm. I am fully aware that this eagle hunts small foxes, hares, and even snakes. Arslan is very proficient and is capable of riding his horse while eagle-hunting.

Pedro, Italy

While tap water in Kyrgyzstan is generally considered safe, I wouldn't advise it for young kids. It takes a while for the body to adapt to the tap water of a new location. If you need an ambulance, call 103. It is quite efficient.

Tokiko, Japan

What means of transport are you going to use? I would say that driving in Kyrgyzstan is not super safe. Many drivers in Kyrgyzstan completely ignore red lights and illegally pass other cars. Speed limits are almost only observed when the drivers know that some cops are around. Drivers drive pretty recklessly. Once, I took a shared taxi to travel between Talas and Bishkek and the driver sped up to almost 180 km per hour, just because he felt like showing off! If speed isn't enough, another factor that could be dangerous while driving in Kyrgyzstan is the presence of numerous potholes. The roads around the country aren't always very well-maintained, and it's not uncommon to come across uneven pavement and open drains.

Muhammad, Turkey

The food in Kyrgyzstan is not only super safe, but it's also super delicious. It's usually very hearty and filling. Most dishes consist of mutton, beef, and chicken meat, served in dumplings, on top of noodles or rice, or alongside potatoes. Kyrgyz people are traditionally big meat eaters. If you're a vegetarian, it will be challenging to find dishes without meat. You can still ask for something without meat but expect some weird looks.

Who...

1. ... is convinced that foreigners might have difficulties findin vegetarian dishes on the menus of local cafes and restaurants?
2. ... is in favour of animals as local attraction?
3. ... disapproves of drivers in Kyrgyzstan?
4. ... is extremely concerned about the criminal situation in the country?
5. ... is annoyed by the quality of the roads?
6. ... admires local youth?
7. ... is aware of what to do in case of a health emergency?
8. ... is keen on travelling through Kyrgyzstan?
9. ... prevents other people from drinking tap water?
10. ... insists on leaving items of value at the hotel?
11. ... is positive about travelling through Kyrgyzstan?
12. ... is negative about travelling through Kyrgyzstan?

2. Match each of the highlighted words from the text to the correct meaning.

1) likely to make someone or something more successful efficient
2) suitable for a particular situation
3) popular with young people
4) involving or causing difficulties
5) working well and producing good results
6) completely understand
7) very good at something
8) to show in a very obvious way what one can do or what one owns

3. In pairs, answer the questions.

1. When prospective tourists read all the opinions, will they decide to travel to our country?
2. Now that you are fully aware of the tourists' opinions, will you make any changes in your behavior or advise someone else to change their behavior?
3. Do you agree with the above stated opinions?
4. Have you heard other opinions about traveling in Kyrgyzstan? What were they like?
5. What is the teenage craze in your place at the current moment?
6. What are you proficient at?
7. What else do you think prospective tourists should know about our country?

Lessons 3–4

1. Rephrase the direct speech below as indirect statements to report what is said. Read the language focus below before beginning this exercise.

Example: "The food in Kyrgyzstan is not only super safe, but it's also super delicious," said Muhhamad.
Muhammad said that the food in Kyrgyzstan was not only super good, but it was also super delicious.

Language focus

In indirect speech, we often use a tense which is 'further back' in the past (e.g. worked) than the tense originally used (e.g. work). This is called 'backshift'. We also may need to change other words that were used, for example pronouns.

present simple — past simple present continuous — past continuous present perfect — past perfect past simple — past perfect past continuous — past perfect continuous past perfect — past perfect will — would must — had to can — could may — might should — should would — would could — could used to — used to ought to — ought to here — there this — that today — that day yesterday — the previous day / the day before tomorrow — the next day / following day / the day after next month, etc. — the following month / the month after, etc.
last month, etc. — the previous month / the month before, etc.
three days ago — three days before / earlier

Some reporting verbs include: accuse, admit, agree, apologize, ask, beg, claim, command, complain, cry, deny, explain, instruct, order, promise, refuse, reply, respond, say, shout, state, suggest, tell, whisper

1. David stated, "I was surprised by the amount of young Kyrgyz people who speak almost perfect English."
2. Rafa told other tourists, "Going to Kyrgyzstan is definitely advantageous."
3. Pedro wrote, "While tap water in Kyrgyzstan is generally considered safe, I wouldn't advise it for young kids."
4. "If you're a vegetarian, it will be challenging to find dishes without meat," claimed Muhammad.
5. Amanda said, "Arslan is very proficient and is capable of riding his horse while eagle-hunting."
6. "I would say that driving in Kyrgyzstan is not super safe," complained Tokiko.
7. "It is quite efficient," said Pedro.
8. "Hiking alone in Kyrgyzstan is not safe and should never be attempted regardless of whether you are an experienced hiker or not," said Tomas.
9. "Once, I took a shared taxi to travel between Talas and Bishkek and the driver sped up to almost 180 km per hour, just because he felt like showing off," explained Tokiko.
10. Tomas said, "Petty crime, such as theft, is not unheard of and corrupt police can sometimes make it challenging to travel around the country by car. They'll give a fine to locals and foreigners for any reason they can imagine."
11. "The roads around the country aren't always very well-maintained, and it's not uncommon to come across uneven pavement and open drains," instructed Tokiko.

2. Choose the correct word or phrase.

1. When I admitted that the dog has/had eaten my homework, my teacher didn't believe me.
2. Aibek whispered to me that his girlfriend doesn't/didn't eat meat at all.
3. When I saw Aman yesterday morning, he denied that he is/was going to play computer games in the afternoon.
4. When we watched In the tall grass, Aruuke complained she has/had never seen the worst movie in her life!
5. Did Galileo claim that the Earth goes/went around the sun?
6. Maksut shouted to me on Friday that he has/had just bumped into the famous singer Kanykey!
7. I explained to Asantai last week that the school isn't/wasn't opening on Tuesday, so I don't know why he showed up yesterday morning.

If the reporting verb is in the present tense, then the reported statement stays in the present tense:

"The food in Kyrgyzstan is not only super safe, but it's also super delicious," said Muhhamad.
Muhammad says that the food in Kyrgyzstan is not only super good, but it is also super delicious.

3. Rephrase the direct speech below as indirect statements to report what is said.

1. "He works in a bank."
   She says _____
2. "We go out every night."
   She tells me _____
   "I'm coming!"
   She says _____
3. "I will be waiting for the bus when you arrive."
   She tells me _____
4. "I've never been there before."
   She says _____

Language focus

When we want to report an order or request, we can use a verb like 'tell' (command, order, warn, ask, advise, invite, beg, teach, and forbid) with a to-clause:

Pedro said, "If you need an ambulance, call 103."
Pedro asked the tourists to call 103 if they needed an ambulance.
Tomas said, "Don't hike alone."
Tomas warned the tourists not to hike alone.

The pattern is verb + indirect object + (not) to-clause.

Requests for objects are reported using the pattern ask + for + object

"Can I have an apple?" she asked.
She asked for an apple.

Suggestions are usually reported with a that-clause/should. That and should are optional in these clauses:

She said, "Why don't you get a mechanic to look at the car?"
She suggested that I should get a mechanic to look at the car.
She suggested I get a mechanic to look at the car.

Other reporting verbs used in this way are:

advise, challenge, convince, encourage, forbid, instruct, invite, order, persuade, recommend, remind, request, tell, urge + object + to-infinitive assume, advise, convince, inform, notify, persuade, reassure, remind + object + that clause

agree, ask, beg, demand, offer, promise, refuse, threaten + to-infinitive

4. Change the direct speech into indirect speech in the sentences below. Who do you think might have said these sentences? Use one of the reporting verbs from the grammar reference box above.

1. "Could you bring the book tonight?"
   My classmate demanded to bring the book tonight.
2. "Can you help me with my homework, please?"
3. "Would you bring me a cup of coffee, please?"
4. "Would you mind lending me a pencil?"
5. "Do your homework!"
6. "Go to bed!"
7. "Don't be late!"
8. "Don't smoke!"
9. "Tidy your room!"
10. "Wait here!"

Indirect questions are not real questions, so they do not have the word order of questions or a question mark. Remember the following steps:

- When we report questions, the subject comes before the verb.
- When reporting questions, we don't use the auxiliary verbs, except in negative questions.
- We report yes/no questions with if or whether.
- When we report questions with who, what, or which + to be + object, the verb be can come before or after the object.
- We backshift the verb.

Amanda asks, "Are you interested in Kyrgyz nature?"
Amanda asked if the tourists were interested in Kyrgyz nature.

Tokiko wonders, "What means of transport are you goingto use?"
Tokiko wants to know what means of transport the tourists were going to use.

5. Report Timur's questions.

Timur: (1) "Did you pass your TOEFL exam, Akyl?"
Akyl: "Yes, I did, but it was extremely difficult."
Timur: (2) "How long did it take?"
Akyl: "Four hours. I was really exhausted."
Timur: (3) "How much had you revised for it?"
Akyl: "Quite a lot. I started in September."
Timur: (4) "What was the most difficult part?"
Akyl: "I don't know. Listening? Or reading?"
Timur: (5) "Have you got the results?"
Akyl: "Not yet."

Timur asked Akyl (1) if he had passed his TOEFL exam. He also wanted to know (2) _____. Timur wondered (3) _____. Then he asked (4) _____. He wanted to know (5) _____.

6. Change the reported speech questions into direct speech in the following sentences.

15. Many cities in Kyrgyzstan suffer from (29) ~~the~~ crime. The police should be given enough money to deal with (30) the problem.

3. Look at the rules below. Match the rules to the sentences in exercise 2.

Example: We say 'I don't go to mosque' without 'the' because we mean I don't go to pray, which is the main function of this institution. It's rule #K.

Language focus

- Indefinite article a/an

We use 'a/an' when 'we don't know which one', because the thing or person:

A. is one of many (He is a teacher. = there are many teachers)
B. is not unique (I have just bought a BMW.)
C. has not been mentioned before (There is a new student in our class.)

- Definite article the

We use 'the' when 'we know which one', because the thing or person:

D. is unique or unique in that context (The Prime Minister of Kyrgyzstan has just resigned. = there is only one)
E. has been mentioned before (The student is very smart. = this student was mentioned before.)
F. is defined by the phrase which follows it. (What's the new student's name?)
G. with the superlative degree of adjectives (She is the most beautiful girl in my class.)

- Zero article

We do not use an article when we talk about things in general:

H. using plural or uncountable nouns (Do you like mice?)
I. with the names of people or places (Akyl is my friend.)

- Fixed phrases

We should learn by heart the following phrases:

J. a few, at home, at the beginning, at the end, go to bed, go to the cinema/theatre/station, in the world, once a week, sixty kilometers an hour, the next, the other, the other day, the same.

- Other rules

K. With words like prison, university, church, mosque, school, hospital, etc., we use no article when we are thinking about the institution and the normal purpose we use it for: My sister had to stay at hospital for a few days. If we are thinking about the building, we use 'the'. Our flat is opposite the hospital.

L. Phrases of time: the 25th of December / December the 25th, in the morning, in the afternoon, in the evening (but at night, at lunchtime), the 1990s, the 21st century.

M. The names of most countries, continents, islands, states, provinces, towns, and cities do not use an article: *in Asia, to Bishkek, from Texas, in Kazakhstan (*exceptions are countries with the words Republic, Federation, Union, Confederation in the names: the Kyrgyz Republic, the Netherlands, the UK, the USA)

N. If we talk about a region we do not use an article: North-West India, North Europe, but in the east of the country, in the south of Italy, on the coast

O. Most roads, streets, parks, bridges, shops, and restaurants do not use an article: Central Park, Baitik Batyr street, Tower Bridge

P. The names of theatres, cinemas, hotels, galleries, and museums use 'the': the Hermitage, the National Theatre, the Ala-Too cinema, the Hyatt

Q. The names of particular mountains and lakes do not use an article: Lake Issyk-Kul, Mount Korona; but if it is a group of mountains or islands, then we use article 'the': The Tian Shan Mountains, the Galapagos Islands

R. Mountain ranges, groups of islands, rivers, seas, and canals use 'the': the Atlantic, the river Ak-Buura, the Ala-Too mountains, the Big Chui Canal

S. Next and last with day, week, month, season, or year in reference to the one directly after or before the current one do not need any article.

Lesson 6

1. a) Look at the picture. Read the dialogues and answer the following questions.

- Who are the people?
- Where are they?
- What are they talking about?

1. Teacher: Hello everybody. So, what are your long-term plans?
   Meerim: In 10 years' time, I will be singing in the National Opera House.
   Teacher: Wow! Right... good, good... great! Can you sing?
   Meerim: Oh yes, I can sing! My mother says I am an excellent singer, but sometimes, she puts her hands over her ears when I hit the high notes, and the dog runs away and hides under the table.
   Teacher: I see. It's hard to be an opera singer, you know. So, have you got a plan B?
   Meerim: No, not really.
   Teacher: OK, Meerim, well, good luck with that one.

2. Teacher: Nursultan what do you want to do?
   Nursultan: I think by 2035 I will have written two books and will be writing my third one. I want to be a writer.

Teacher: Wow, fantastic! What marks do you get in Literature?
Nursultan: Three. It's not my best subject, I admit it.
Teacher: Not a problem, we can still work with that. So, what do you want to write about?
Nursultan: Garden moles. I love them. They are very interesting.
Teacher: Interesting, are they? What do they do?
Nursultan: They breathe, they eat, and they sleep. And they dig holes.
Teacher: Right... OK, anything else?
Nursultan: They can't see.
Teacher: If you write a book about garden moles, Nursultan, who is going to buy it?
Nursultan: I didn't think about that.
Teacher: Maybe a bit of food for thought there then, eh, Nursultan? You have to make money from your job, you know! Maybe if you like garden moles, you could be a gardener?
Nursultan: I won't be doing gardening, no way! I don't watch moles in real time, there are very few in Kyrgyzstan. I watch them on TV.

3. Teacher: Who is next? Adelina! So, what do you want to be?
Adelina: In ten years' time, I will be teaching children at school.
Teacher: Oh, that's nice. You must love kids then, eh? Do you love kids, Adelina?
Adelina: No, no, no!
Teacher: Erm, I don't understand.You want to be a teacher, but you can't stand kids?
Adelina: That's right. I want to be a teacher. It's an easy life with short days and long holidays.
Teacher: What???

4. Teacher: Asantai, what are your plans for the future?
Asantai: By 2035, I will have graduated from university and will be working as a manager.
Teacher: That's great, but what kind of manager do you want to be?
Asantai: I haven't thought about that.
Teacher: But Asantai, you can't just be a manager. You have to be interested in something and then find out everything about it. So, what are you interested in?

Asantai: Girls. And football.
Teacher: Ha ha, very funny. But that's not something you can make a living out of.
Asantai: I will think about that, thank you.
Teacher: .....

b) Read the dialogues again. What careers do the children dream about? Why does the teacher seem so puzzled? What do all these students have in common?

c) What do you think the teacher did/said at the end of the dialogue? Read the text below and check your ideas. Were you right? Do you think the teacher's made the right decision? Why or why not?

These kids don't know what to do in the future! They need some help! They need a career adviser!

2. Look at the following definitions of a career adviser. Which is the right definition?

a) A career adviser is a person who helps young people to identify their strengths and weaknesses and develop their plans for education, training, and work.
b) A career adviser is a person who tells young people what jobs or careers they should pursue.
c) A career adviser is a person who knows the labour market and finds a job for you.

3. a) Think about the following questions.

1. Do you know what you will be doing in five years' time? In ten years' time? What will you have done to achieve your goals?
2. What jobs are you interested in?
3. Why are you interested in these jobs?
4. What do people do in these jobs?
5. What are the necessary qualifications to get these jobs — training, experience, and knowledge?
6. What is the pay like?
7. What would be the most challenging parts of these jobs and why?
8. What are the other benefits of doing these jobs?

b) Make up a dialogue. First, your partner asks you the questions and you answer. Then, switch roles.

7. In 2050, everyone will be connected to the internet. By 2050, everyone _____ the internet one way or the other. (access)

7. Read a music album review below. Find three grammar, three punctuation, and three spelling errors.

I have no doubt when it comes to which is my favourite album of all time. Ahora o Nunca by La Pegatina is filled with lively melodies catchy lyrics, and a lot of humour. It is no secret that the artists that form La Pegatina are able to cheer up a whole crowd and make everyone want to dance all night. Thus, this is the main reason why they are invited to so many parties.

The album Ahora o Nunca is filled with fast-paced, foot-tapping unique songs. These frantic and upbeat lyrics nevertheless carry an important message. La Pegatina aims to vindicating the dehumanication of cities, the excessive use of social media, and living in the present. For example, they claim that cities like Barcelona, have become an amusement park due to tourism. They also insist that we are often thinking about what it is yet to come and not enjoying life as it is. In fact, this is what inspired the name of the album. What distinguish this unique music group from the others is their ability to spread such important reflections with humour and positivity. Moreover, they could lift any ones mood up in less than a span of two songs.

Unlike other groups, the artists from La Pegatina devote themselves entirely to remaining true to themselves. They have their own unprecedented style, and this album is a proof of their uniqueness. More importantly, not only do they focus on the outside and the structure, but they fight to change this society through their lyrics.

8. Look at the guidelines below and write about your favourite album. Use the text in exercise 7 as a sample.

1. The first paragraph should be a general introduction to what you're reviewing. Include the title, artist, and an interesting fact about its success or how it was made.
2. The main body of the review needs details. Use specific vocabulary (e.g. lyrics, fast-paced, catchy melodies) to comment on particular songs and parts of the music.
3. It is also important to give context. Link the music to the artist's life, or what inspired them, and the political or social context of the album.
4. Try to make the review interesting and relevant to the reader. You can relate the artist's work to real-life experience (yours or that of people in general).
5. Use compound adjectives (e.g. fast-paced, foot-tapping, best-selling) to vary your writing.
6. Finish off with a summary of why this album is outstanding.

ROUND UP

1. The academic year is almost over. Do you think you have achieved all your goals? Respond to the survey by placing a checkmark next to the ones that apply to you and share the results with your classmates and teacher. Remember examples from the class.

Example: Now that this school year is over, I can say that in English class, I...

The past simple shows complete, simple actions in the past — usually the main events in the story.

Every day brought some type of surprise or challenge.

The past continuous shows actions in progress at a time in the past. They often start before and continue after the main event of the story.

While I was studying at college, I began working as a trainee in an auto service and repair shop.

The past simple, not the past continuous, is usually used for verbs that describe states. These verbs include:

a) verbs that describe thought processes and opinions: agree, believe, forget, know, remember, think, etc.
b) verbs that describe emotions: hate, like, love, want, etc.
c) verbs that describe the five senses: feel, hear, see, smell, taste
d) others: be, have, belong, etc.

2. Past perfect simple and past perfect continuous

Both tenses describe events before the main events in the story.

The*past perfect simple* shows complete, simple actions or states before the main events in the story.

Before I finished school, I had decided to become a mechanic.

The past perfect continuous emphasises duration, and often shows actions that continue up until the main past events.

After I had been working for a year or two, I learned virtually every type of repair.

The past perfect simple, not the past perfect continuous, is usually used for verbs that describe states. See the list of state verbs in part 1.

UNIT 2
Verb patterns

1. verb + to V1

These verbs don't take an object before the to-infinitive (to V1): attempt, can't afford, decide, hope, offer, plan, pretend, seem, try.

2. verb + sb + to V1

These verbs sometimes take an object before the to-infinitive (to V1): expect, help, promise, need, want, would like.

These verbs normally take an object before the to-infinitive (to V1): advise, allow, ask, teach, tell.

3. verb + sb + V1

These verbs take an object before the infinitive without to (V1): make and let.

4. verb + Ving

These verbs take the gerund (Ving): avoid, can't stand, don't mind, enjoy, finish, look forward to, spend time, suggest.

UNIT 3
Real conditionals

These sentences describe real situations. They consist of a main clause and an if-clause. The if-clause can come before the main clause or after the main clause. When it comes before the main clause, we use a comma.

If the weather is fine, we will go to the mountains.

We will go to the mountains if the weather is fine.

There are two types of real conditionals:

1. Zero conditional

These sentences describe what always happens in a particular situation. They are usually used to talk about facts or something that is always true.

*If you heat water to 100°C, it boils. (scientific fact)

When I am tired, I always go to bed early. (This always happens in the same way.)

If When	+ subject + present simple, subject + present simple

2. First conditional

These sentences describe what the speaker thinks will possibly happen in the future as a result of a real situation.

If I am late for school again, my teacher will call my parents.

If As long as Unless	+ subject + present simple, subject + will +V1

Unless you train hard, you won't win the competition.*

If you do not train hard, you won't win the competition.*

as long as = only if

Only if you train hard, you will win the competition.*

UNIT 4
Unreal conditionals

These sentences consist of an if-clause and a main clause. They are used to describe unreal / imaginary situations.

1. Second conditional

Second conditional is used to talk about dreams in the present / general time.

If + subject + past simple, subject + would + V1.

If I had a million dollars, I would travel around the world.

If people could speak to animals, they would become vegetarians.

Notice that in the if-clause, we can use were and was with I / he / she / it.

If I were / was a millionaire, I would travel around the world.

If my brother was / were not so lazy, he would study well at school.

We always use were when we give advice with If I were you.

If I were you, I would buy it.* (Not ~~If I was you~~, ...)

2. Third conditional

Third conditional is used to express regrets about past actions.

If + subject + past perfect, subject + would + have + V3.

If I hadn't wasted so much money on stupid things, I would have gone to a café with my friends yesterday.

If I hadn't borrowed some money from my friend, I wouldn't have bought you a present.

3. Mixed conditional

Mixed conditional is used to express regrets about past and present together.

(past) (present)

If + subject + past perfect, subject + would + V1.

If I hadn't wasted so much money on stupid things, I would be rich now.

If I hadn't borrowed some money from my friend, I wouldn't have any money now.

(present) (past)

If + subject + past simple, subject + would + have +V3.

If she were a generous person, she would have bought you a present.

If he wasn't so lazy, he would have done his homework by now.

Notice that in all types of unreal conditionals, you can also use could to express ability and might to express possibility instead of would in the main clause.

If she were a millionaire, she could travel around the world. (= she would be able to travel)

If she were a millionaire, she might travel around the world. (= maybe she would travel)

If I had borrowed some money from my friend, I could have bought you a present. (= I would have been able to buy)

If I had borrowed some money from my friend, I might have bought you a present. (= maybe I would have bought)

UNIT 5
Passive voice

The passive voice is used when we want to emphasize the action (the verb) and the object of a sentence rather than the subject (the doer). This means that the subject (the doer) is either less important than the action itself or that we don't know who or what the subject (the doer) is.

Present simple	The house is(n't) painted every summer.
Present continuous	The house is(n't) being painted at the moment.
Present perfect	The house has(n't) been painted.
Past simple	The house was(n't) painted last year.
Past continuous	The house was(n't) being painted from 2018 to 2019.
Past perfect	The house that had(n't) been painted was sold last Monday.
Future simple	The house will (won't) be painted soon.
Be going to	The house is(n't) going to be painted next month.
Modals	The house should(n't) be painted.

UNIT 6
Cause and effect; modals of deduction and for future possibility

1. Cause and effect

Possible conjunctions and verbs to demonstrate cause and effect

	Cause	Effect
conjunctions	because / since / so + subject + verb because of / owing to / due to + noun	so / therefore / consequently / which is why + subject + verb
verbs	cause Heavy rain causes flooding. lead Heavy rain leads to flooding. result in Heavy rain results in flooding. produce Heavy rain produces flooding.	results from Flooding results from heavy rain. is caused by Flooding is caused by heavy rain. (note use of passive) is produced by Flooding is produced by heavy rain.

2. Modals of deduction and for future possibility

We use the modal verbs might, may, and could + (not) V1 when we think it is (not) possible that something is true.

We use must when we are sure it is true and can't when we are sure it isn't true.

We use may/might and will to talk about things that are possible in the present and future.

We use may/might then we we are not very certain, and we use will when we are quite certain.

Subject + must / may / might / will / could + base form: We may invite boys and girls from our school too. They might help to clean the park. Akyl must live near because he always walks to school. will is often contracted to 'll: Bakyt'll make a poster.	Subject + may / might / will / can + + not + base form: We might not have classes on Friday. She can't know English well. She has failed the test. will not is often written as won't: I won't come again to this dirty park.

Subject + will definitely / probably + + base form: The weather will definitely be good on Friday.	Subject + definitely / probably + won't + base form: The director of the school probably won't attend the clean-up day.

UNIT 7
Modals of deduction

1. Modals of deduction (perfect modals)

Must and can't / couldn't + have + past participle is used when we are certain about situations in the past. Must and can't are opposites:

May / might / could + have + past participle is used to talk about possibilities in the past (may have = possible, 50%; could / might have = less certain, 33%)

I am not sure what sort of bird it was that I saw yesterday, but it may/might/could have been an eagle.

Must / can / could / might / may + have + been + Ving is used when we are talking about certain or uncertain continuous actions in the past.

This man must have been living on the same street all his life. He knows everyone there.

2. Modals of deduction (deduction about present)

We use modals of possibility or probability + subject + be + Ving to make a guess or draw a logical conclusion about an activity in progress at the present time or during the time of speaking.

— What's all that noise?
— The neighbour's son must be listening to music.

Must conveys a strong feeling of certainty.

Could, may and might show that a speaker is 50% or less certain that an action is in progress.

Couldn't and can't show that the speaker believes strongly that a situation is not taking place.

May not and might not convey the idea that a speaker is 50% or less certain that an action is not possible or probable. They are not normally used in their contracted forms.

UNIT 8
Reported speech; articles

1. Reported (indirect) speech

It is possible to report what someone said using indirect or reported speech. We often change the tense of the original verb, pronouns and possessives, and expressions of time and place.

Present simple — past simple
Present continuous — past continuous
Present perfect — past perfect
Past simple — past perfect
Past continuous — past perfect continuous Past perfect — past perfect will — would must — had to can — could may — might should — should would — would could — could used to — used to ought to — ought to here — there this — that today — that day
yesterday — the previous day / the day before tomorrow — the next day / following day / the day after next month, etc. — the following month / the month after, etc.
last month, etc. — the previous month / the month before, etc.
three days ago — three days before / earlier

Some reporting verbs include: accuse, admit, agree, apologize, ask, beg, claim, command, complain, cry, deny, explain, instruct, order, promise, refuse, reply, respond, say, shout, state, suggest, tell, whisper.

2. If the reporting verb is in the present tense, then the reported statement stays in the present tense:

"The food in Kyrgyzstan is not only super safe, but it's also super delicious," said Muhhamad.
Muhammad says that the food in Kyrgyzstan is not only super good, but it is also super delicious.

3. When we want to report an order or request, we can use a verb like 'tell' (command, order, warn, ask, advise, invite, beg, teach, and forbid) with a to-clause:

Pedro said, "If you need an ambulance, call 103."
Pedro asked the tourists to call 103 if they needed an ambulance.
*Tomas said, "*Don't hike alone."
Tomas warned the tourists not to hike alone.

The pattern is verb + indirect object + (not) to-clause.

Requests for objects are reported using the pattern ask + for + object

"Can I have an apple?", she asked.
She asked for an apple.

4. Suggestions are usually reported with a that-clause/should. 'That' and 'should' are optional in these clauses:

She said, "Why don't you get a mechanic to look at the car?"
She suggested that I should get a mechanic to look at the car.
She suggested I get a mechanic to look at the car.

Other reporting verbs used in this way are: advise, challenge, convince, encourage, forbid, instruct, invite, order, persuade, recommend, remind, request, tell, urge + object + to-infinitive

assume, advise, convince, inform, notify, persuade, reassure, remind + object + that clause

accuse (someone of + Ving), advise (someone on + Ving), congratulate (someone on + Ving), reprimand (someone for + Ving)

agree, ask, beg, demand, offer, promise, refuse, threaten + to-infinitive

- Indirect questions are not real questions, so they do not have the word order of questions or a question mark, the subject comes before the verb, auxiliary verbs are not used, for general questions if or whether should be used, and finally, all verbs are backshifted.

Amanda asks, "Are you interested in Kyrgyz nature?"
Amanda asked if the tourists were interested in Kyrgyz nature.
Tokiko interests, "What means of transport are you going to use?"
Tokiko wants to know what means of transport the tourists were going to use.

Articles

- Indefinite article 'a / an'

  We use 'a / an' when 'we don't know which one', because the thing or person:

  A. is one of many (He is a teacher. = there are many teachers)
  B. is not unique (I have just bought a BMW.)
  C. has not been mentioned before (There is a new student in our class.)

- Definite article 'the'

  We use 'the' when 'we know which one', because the thing or person:

  D. is unique or unique in that context (The Prime Minister of Kyrgyzstan has just resigned. = there is only one)
  E. has been mentioned before (The student is very smart. = this student was mentioned in example 3.)
  F. is defined by the phrase that follows it (What's the new student's name?)
  G. with the superlative degree of adjectives (She is the most beautiful girl in my class.)

- Zero article

  We do not use an article when we talk about things in general:

  H. using plural or uncountable nouns (Do you like mice?)
  I. with the names of people or places (Akyl is my friend.)

- Fixed phrases

  We should learn by heart the following phrases:

  J. a few, at home, at the beginning, at the end, go to bed, go to the cinema / theatre / station, in the world, once a week, sixty kilometers an hour, the next, the other, the other day, the same.

- Other rules

  K. With words like prison, university, church, mosque, school, hospital, etc., we use no article when we are thinking about the institution and the normal purpose we use it for: My sister had to stay at hospital for a few days. If we are thinking about the building, we use 'the'. Our flat is opposite the hospital
  L. Phrases of time: the 25th of December/December the 25th, in the morning, in the afternoon, in the evening (but at night, at lunchtime), the 1990s, the 21st century
  M. The names of most countries, continents, islands, states, provinces, towns, and cities do not use an article: in Asia, to Bishkek, from Texas, in Kazakhstan (exceptions are countries with the words Republic, Federation, Union, or Confederation in the names: the Kyrgyz Republic, the Netherlands, the UK, the USA)

N. If we talk about a region we do not use an article: North-West India, North Europe, but in the east of the country, in the south of Italy, on the coast

O. Most roads, streets, parks, bridges, shops, and restaurants do not use an article: Central Park, Baitik Batyr street, Tower Bridge

P. The names of theatres, cinemas, hotels, galleries, and museums use 'the': the Hermitage, the National Theatre, the Ala-Too cinema, the Hyatt

Q. The names of particular mountains and lakes do not take an article: Lake Issyk-Kul, Mount Korona; but if it is a group of mountains or islands, then we use article 'the': the Tian Shan mountains, the Galapagos Islands

R. Mountain ranges, groups of islands, rivers, seas, and canals use 'the': the Atlantic, the river Ak-Buura, the Ala-Too Mountains, the Big Chui Canal

S. Next and last with day, week, month, season, or year, in reference to the one directly after or before the current one, do not need any article.
